U. S. WARNS JAPS ON 'OPEN DOOR'

Roosevelt Stays Out of Pension Squabble

WHITE HOUSE WON'T ACT IN DAVEY FIGHT

Ferguson, in New Quest for Funds, Told President Won't Intervene.

BOARD STANDING PAT

Federal Administrator Tells Auditor Shifts Necessary in Ohio System.

WASHINGTON — Joseph Ferguson, Ohio state auditor, said Marvin McIntyre, one of President Roosevelt's secretaries, informed him today the White House would not intervene in a dispute between the social security board and the Ohio state administration.

Ferguson had sought McIntyre's aid to end a deadlock between the board and the state administration which has resulted in suspension of federal grants for Ohio old age pensioners.

Keeps Stand Intact.

George Bigge, board member, told Ferguson yesterday the board was standing on its position administration of the state division of aid for the aged must be reorganized before grants were resumed.

"We are up a stump now," Ferguson said.

He said he did not believe there would be any advantage in his remaining here to talk with Chairman A. J. Altmeyer, of the board. Altmeyer was expected to return tomorrow from Kansas City.

The auditor asserted that groups of pensioners in various sections of the state were considering starting ouster proceedings against the governor.

"They are thoroughly aroused because he will not meet the board's requirements," he said.

Davey yesterday won a partial victory in litigation seeking to compel him to make the changes when the state supreme court struck five items from a mandamus petition of Edgar S Byers, Cleveland Heights attorney, who sued as a taxpayer.

Other sections of the petition were allowed to stand and Davey and two welfare officials must answer them by Saturday, a court clerk said. Welfare Director Margaret Allman and Pension Division Chief Wray Bevens were named in Byers' action.

Break Ground For School Building Program Today

The first shovelful of earth for Mansfield's million dollar school building program was turned at noon today at the site of a $25,000 shop addition at Senior high school.

Six men under the supervision of John W. Ness, contractor on the project, started excavation work for the building addition, five days before the Oct. 31 deadline set by PWA officials.

The building, first of three structures to be built in the school program, will be directly behind the Senior high school. Two $450,000 junior high school buildings, one of which will replace the present John Simpson building, will be erected later.

Workmen on the project will be employed from lists furnished by the Mansfield office of the National Re-employment bureau. The contractor on each of the building projects will hire the men.

As Van Sweringen Antiques Went Under Auctioneer's Hammer

URGES VOTE ON BONDS AT UNION

PWA Withdraws Allocation But Promises New Grant If Issue Wins Nov. 8.

School officials in the Union Rural district north of Mansfield had been told today to go ahead with their campaign for a $75,900 bond issue for a new school building although a PWA allocation for the project has been withdrawn by the federal government.

V. B. Moffett, superintendent of the Union schools and a leader in the bond campaign, said a new application for funds had been submitted and the schools had been assured that another allocation would be made promptly if the bond issue passes No. 8.

An allocation for $62,100 to supplement the bond issue was approved the day after the bond issue failed by a slight margin at a special election Sept. 20. The allotment, however, was diverted to another project when the issue failed to pass.

When the state tax commission approved a second election recently, school officials renewed their campaign for the bond issue.

The district's building program calls for the construction of a new school building in the center of an area comprising Weller and Franklin townships and modernization of the present high school in Weller township. The entire project would cost $138,000, with 55 per cent of the funds to come from the bond issue and the other 45 from the PWA allocation.

PATH CLEARED

Court Ruling Paves Way for $7,500,000 Phone Refund.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Freed of entangling litigation, the sum of $7,500,000 was ready today for refund to more than 600,000 Ohio Bell Telephone company subscribers in 48 communities, but just how soon payments would start still remained undetermined.

The Ohio supreme court's refusal yesterday to rehear an attempt by Earl Harrison and a group of Cleveland labor leaders to intervene in the rate controversy left the way open for the payments under a compromise agreement.

The sum was set through agreement between the company and the state public utilities commission following more than a year of litigation. Payments were to have started in September but the Clevelanders' action delayed them.

NEW YORK — (UP) — Edith Menger, five-year-old daughter of Patrolman Harry Menger, was accidentally shot and killed today while she and her brother, three-year-old Harry, jr., were playing with the policeman's service revolver.

The children had taken the weapon to their bedroom and were alone when the shooting occurred.

Cuyahoga 'Insurgent' Dems Backing Sawyer

Candidate Offers More Evidence of 'Deal' By Bricker with Davey As Miller-controlled Party Pledges Support to Him.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND—Charles Sawyer, Democratic nominee for governor, had the promise today of Ray T. Miller that his dominant "insurgent" wing of Cuyahoga county party ranks "will support you and all other Democratic candidates."

Sawyer, Sen. Robert J. Bulkley and Sen. Theodore Green (D., R. I.) addressed a rally of the faction headed by Miller last night.

The so-called "insurgents" had supported Gov. Martin L. Davey in the primary campaign. Although Sawyer carried the county, the "insurgents" were victorious over the "regulars" led by Burr Gongwer, veteran Democratic leader.

Cheers greeted a statement from Sawyer that he "believed in the rank and file of the Democratic party and disbelieved in bosses of any kind."

Sawyer, in his speech here and one earlier at Akron, renewed his attack on Republican Nominee John W. Bricker for what he called an "unholy alliance" with Governor Davey involving a patronage "deal."

The Cincinnatian said he had in his possession an affidavit from an Akron man, setting forth that he applied to Myrna Smith, Davey's secretary, for a job and was told to see L. L. Poe of Akron, a Republican executive committeeman.

Sawyer displayed five other statements in which he said that liquor department employes disclosed they had been instructed to support Bricker actively.

Bulkley charged that the Republican party champions "the moneyed interests" and the "pampered few."

Bulkley reiterated his charge that Robert A. Taft, his Republican senatorial opponent, "bought his nomination" with a primary campaign expenditure totaling $110,000.

"If that is right," said Bulkley,

THE LOCAL SCENE

RICHLAND county Democrats today had carried their campaign into Shelby in a concerted drive for votes that will take state and district candidates into practically every township in the county before the Nov. 8 election.

At an organization meeting of Shelby central committeemen last night, plans were completed for a city-wide drive to be climaxed Nov. 3 with a rally at which Congressman William A. Ashbrook will speak.

Atty. John C. O'Donnell, executive committee chairman, said a thorough county-wide campaign would be launched Tuesday with rallies at Butler and Lucas and extending throughout the week to include all villages in the district.

Meanwhile Sixth ward Democrats completed arrangements for the first of a series of ward meet-

AMERICA is facing a greater crisis at the November election than it faced in the Civil war period, two speakers asserted last night at a Republican rally at party headquarters on North Main street.

The speakers were C. C. Crabbe, former attorney general of Ohio, and Mrs. Kathryn E. Wetzel, of Hamilton, representing the state Republican headquarters at Columbus. They addressed 250 persons at a dinner meeting sponsored by the Republican Women's Council of Richland county.

Citing the attempts of President Roosevelt to pack the supreme court and pick senators and congressmen who would do his bidding, Mrs. Wetzel asserted: "This is not a fight between Republicans and Democrats but a fight to keep

U. S. CHECKING UP ON BULKLEY

Senate Investigators Ordered Into Ohio to Learn About Campaign Donations.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Senate investigators were ordered into Ohio today to question 50 federal officeholders and employes about the circumstances under which they contributed to the campaign fund of U. S. Sen. Robert J. Bulkley.

Acting under instructions from the senate campaign expenditures committee, the investigators also will seek an explanation from Sen. Bulkley, who has disputed the committee's assertion that such gifts violate the federal criminal statute.

The agents were under further orders to resume their examination of expenditures made on behalf of Bulkley's Republican opponent, Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati, whom the senator has accused of spending huge sums.

The committee exonerated Taft of a charge that his campaign organization spent more than was reported to the senate group but directed an additional check to determine the names of individuals contributing to local Taft committees. Chairman Morris Sheppard, D., Tex., said the Taft reports listed only lump sum receipts in the names of some local committees.

SEES PACT NEAR

Daladier Claims French-Nazi 'Understanding' in Sight.

MARSEILLE — (AP) — Premier Daladier today told the congress of his own Radical-Socialist party that he believed Germany and France would come to an understanding.

Addressing a packed auditorium, the premier declared that there "are powerful reasons for mutual esteem" between the two countries "which must lead to loyal collaboration."

Before Daladier spoke, members of parliament attending the congress said France already had expressed willingness to drop her mutual assistance pacts with Soviet Russia in order to reach an agreement with Germany.

'Car 2 Calling WQFY'—It's Test of 2-Way Radio for Police Patrol Duty

Chief Demonstrates How Cruisers Could Use Latest System.

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

With Police Chief Meade K. Bates behind the wheel, cruiser No. 2 equipped with an ultra high frequency transmitter, rolled out of the police garage at 8:15 last night for what was to be a two-hour demonstration of two-way radio communication in police patroling.

It was to be a demonstration of the latest in police communication which is now in use in larger police departments throughout the country and one which Chief Bates hopes to bring to Mansfield—if city council will appropriate the funds.

As Bates piloted the squad car north on Walnut street he snapped a switch on the dashboard and the radio receiver began to hum—we were now on routine patrol.

As we neared Third street he reached for the small microphone beside him and hardly above a whisper I heard:

"Car 2 to WQFY—car 2 to WQFY—car 2 now in service. Location, traveling east on East Third street between Main and Diamond street."

"Okay car 2, WQFY the Mansfield police at 8:08," was the reply that come from the receiver.

Several minutes later as we rounded Central park the radio dispatcher's voice came in again. This time: "Attention Car No. 2, report if high water under Park avenue east subway."

EMPIRE CALLS BACK 100 MEN, OPERATIONS UP

60 Per Cent Production Rate Next Week to Be Highest Since Fall of 1937.

EMPLOYMENT HITS 1,000

Auto Industry's Demands For Sheet Steel, Other Orders, Speed Up Plant Here.

Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company next week will call back to work 100 men, and will increase its production rate to 60 per cent of finishing capacity, James M. Hill, president of the company announced today.

Hill said the 60 per cent figure was Empire's highest production rate since the fall of 1937.

He attributed the increase in operations to the recent rise in automobile production, which reflects in additional orders for sheet steel such as Empire manufactures, and an increase in orders for other lines of steel products made by the company.

Continue for Rest of Year.

"Indications are that these operations will be maintained for at least the balance of the year," Hill said, in announcing the increase.

The return to work of the 100 men next week will bring Empire's total employment to about 1,000 men, Hill said.

Additional mills are to be put into operation in order to handle the increase in orders. All three of the recently-installed mechanized sheet mills will be in use as well as four mills of the older type.

Equals Industry's Average.

Hill said the 60 per cent schedule at Empire was equal to the operating rate of the industry in general, and better than many mills. Steel in general has increased production lately, chiefly due to large automobile orders.

Iron Age, a steel industry publication, in its weekly review yesterday, said ingot production over the country had risen to 54 per cent last week. Hill said he believed that ingot production would go even higher this week.

The surprising demand for 1939 model automobiles is expected to keep motor manufacturers at a high rate of production through the balance of the year, and steel makers have heavy orders, most of which call for delivery by Dec. 31, Iron Age said.

'Mystery Woman' Says She Feared Spy 'Vengeance'

NEW YORK —(AP)— The story of a "mystery woman" who asked federal agents to guard her against the vengeance of German spies she helped to expose was resumed today in the government's nine-day-old espionage trial.

The witness, Miss Senta deWanger, 31, dark-haired former Wall street broker's secretary, said she had been under constant guard by FBI agens at a mid-town hotel because she was afraid of possible retaliation by William Lonkowski, alleged "contact" man of the espionage ring.

Lonkowski, a German army avitor during the World war, fled the country and is now a fugitive from justice.

Lonkowski escaped after U. S. customs agents had detected him trying to smuggle American military secrets to a go-between on the North German Lloyd liner Europa.

Miss DeWanger for the first time in the trial "put the finger" on Otto Hermann Voss, 38, one of the three defendants, who is accused of purloining U. S. army air force secrets.

Miss DeWanger said she rented rooms to Lonkowski and his wife in 1935, and that Voss frequently brought packages to Lonkowski.

KAY FRANCIS 'THROUGH'

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico—(INS)—Vowing that she is through with motion pictures and admitting she may soon be married, Kay Francis, Hollywood screen star, was en route today to Haiti aboard the freighter Genevieve. Miss Francis said her trip is "just a rest." She refused to name her prospective husband.

VIOLATIONS OF AMERICAN TRADE RIGHTS SCORED

Note Says Absence of Favorable Reply Will Strain Relations; Alterations Of Tariff, Mail Censoring Hit As "Unwarranted Interference."

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The United States government has told Japan in a strongly-worded note to stop "unwarranted interference" with American rights in China.

The 3,000-word statement, presented by Ambassador Joseph C. Grew in Tokyo Oct. 6 but made public only today, demanded continuance of the "open door" policy in the Orient.

An early reply was requested. The unofficial interpretation here was that if a favorable answer did not arrive soon, relations between the two countries would become strained.

The United States accused Japan of seeking to make another Manchoukuo out of the portions of China she has occupied, and listed a long series of violations of American business and property rights.

The note charged Japan with trying to monopolize all trade in China through setting up pseudo-Chinese monopolies; with manipulating the currency in North China; with altering the tariffs; with keeping American business men from their properties; with censoring and interfering with American mail and telegrams at Shanghai.

It called Japan's changes in the customs office "arbitrary and illegal assumptions of authority for which the Japanese government has an unescapable responsibility."

Seeking 'Superiority.'

All these violations, said the note, "indicate clearly that the Japanese authorities are seeking to establish in areas which have come under Japanese military occupation general preferences for, and superiority of, Japanese interests, an inevitable effect of which will be to frustrate the practical application of the principle of "the open door and deprive American nationals of equal opportunity."

Saying Americans already had suffered so greatly from the Sino-Japanese conflict that "an early rehabilitation of American enterprise in China and of American trade with China cannot be expected," the note added:

"The American government, therefore, finds it all the more difficult to reconcile itself to a situation in which American nationals must contend with continuing unwarranted interference with their rights at the hands of the Japanese authorities in China and with Japanese actions and policies which operate to deprive American trade and enterprise of equality of opportunity in China. . . .

"Your excellency can not fail to recognize the existence of a great and growing disparity between the treatment accorded American Nationals and their trade and enterprise by Japanese authorities in China and Japan and the treatment accorded Japanese Nationals and their trade and enterprise by the government of the United States in areas within its jurisdiction."

See 'Veiled Threat.'

Some students of far eastern affairs professed to see in this statement a veiled threat that if Japan did not accord Americans better treatment, Japanese merchants dealing in or with the United States soon might encounter restrictions.

The note set forth that American interests had been largely squeezed out of Manchoukuo by Japan.

"In the opinion of my government," Ambassador Crew wrote, "equality of opportunity or the open door has virtually ceased to exist in Manchuria notwithstanding the assurances of the Japanese government that it would be maintained in that trea."

(The word "Manchuria" was used rather than "Manchoukuo," Japanese term for the puppet state it made of Manchuria in 1932. The inference was that the United States has no intention of recognizing Manchoukuo.)

The United States made three specific demands in the message:

"1. The discontinuance of discriminatory exchange control and of other measures imposed in areas in China under Japanese control which operate either directly or indirectly to discriminate

POLICY: Roosevelt Warns U. S. Won't Bow To 'Peace By Fear'

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The United States, through President Roosevelt, served notice on the world today it would protect the western hemisphere from foreign interefrence and, while desiring disarmament, would not disarm "while neighbor nations arm to the teeth."

The president, in his first pronouncement on American foreign policy since the Czechoslovakian crisis, made virtually precedent-shattering condenmation of nations which employ force, exile and repression as instruments of national policy.

He declared that the governments of foreign nations "must not threaten the world with the disaster of war" and asserted no useful purpose is served to suggest "either to the American people or the peoples of other nations that the American government in its polices, its practices and its servants are actuated by motives of dishonor or corruption.

"To do so," he said, "is, of necessity, an attack on the American system of constitutional representative government itself."

The president voiced his views last night in an address broadcast from the White House to the eighth annual New York Herald Tribune forum on current problems.

The chief executive followed his predecessor, Herbert Hoover, who urged the United States to initiate resumption of world economic conferences as a vital step towards peace, and Viscount Halifax, the British foreign minister.

The British cabinet minister, in a broadcast from London, urged

DEFI: Japs Disclaim Liability For Losses of Neutral Nations

SHANGHAI —(INS)— With Japanese forces in control of the entire Wuhan area—Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang—Nipponese authorities today disclaimed responsibility for property losses suffered by neutrals as a result of the fighting.

An official of the Japanese embassy made this point clear as he defined the attitude of Tokyo toward the refugee zone set up in fallen Hankow. He said:

"We can recognize neither the right of the zone committee to administer the district following Japanese occupation, nor the immunity of Chinese police who remain after the territory is captured.

"We cannot recognize the inviolability of property belonging to nationals of third powers as long as actual fighting is in progress.

We are not responsible for any damage inflicted upon the properties of such nationals during the fighting."

It was indicated reliably that this point of view was meant to apply not only to the Hankow area but to all other regions in China affected by the Sino-Japanese conflict.

Authorities and foreign observers here believed a serious international situation might result from the apparent intention of the Japanese to assume charge of administration of all foreign areas in Japanese controlled sections of China.

Harry Pulled a 'Getchell," Too

McLemore Pities Poor Stars

Lazzeri Headed for St. Louis

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

HARRY MEHOCK has a pretty good idea of how Referee Johnny Getchell felt when the "wrong down" situation developed in South Bend last Saturday. The Mansfield high coach encountered a similar experience a few years ago while officiating at a Danville-Newcomerstown game. Leading 6 to 0 in the final period, Newcomerstown, as Harry explains it, had the ball inside of its own 20. The Newcomerstown quarterback requested the down from Mehock. He looked back at the down box, which said third, and told the quarterback accordingly. But, in reality, it was the fourth down, the box holder having failed to turn the number. Newcomerstown then kicked out of danger on the fifth down. Had Danville obtained the ball on downs where the error was committed, it undoubtedly would have scored, according to Mehock. How smilin' Harry escaped the crowd when it learned of the error was not explained.

Connie Mack's suggestion that baseball players in slumps be granted vacations with pay instead of suspensions is gratifying to the United Press' Henry McLemore, who has long pitied the hands for their hard work and oppressive hours. "It is almost more than one can bear to think of a baseball player's drudgery," McLemore writes. "He must work nearly six months of each year, and at the sweatshop hours of from 3 to 5 p. m. The only time he has to rest his weary bones is from the end of September until late in February when he must leave the slush and cold of his home and go to Florida or California. The suggestion is that of a true humanitarian, and I am all for it!"

Richard R. Poling, Mansfield's widely-known football statistician and expert, has this to say about the Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech "wrong down" incident: "I agree with Coach Russ Murphy on the fact that the quarterback should realize the down, etc. However, in the rules, the referee is the final law of the game. He can call the game forfeited if he deems it wise. He can overrule the other officials (not ethical, but he can). If I had an occurrence such as that in a game I would call the play back and set myself and the teams right. I would confer with the other officials, captains and coaches not on what to do, but admit that I had been wrong. In four years as an official with the OHSAA, I'm glad I never had one like that. There is no doubt, with the game as close as that one, that the Carnegie quarter would ever have tried a running play on fourth down." Poling considers the whole incident "just Notre Dame luck."

Kenmore Star All-Akron Back

Cardinals' Fullback One of State's Most Brilliant High School Pigskin Carriers.

MANSFIELD football folk planning to visit Stadium field Saturday afternoon when the Tygers conclude the home end of their schedule can look forward to seeing another gridiron prancer who can step out in any company in action.

His name is Lloyd Miller, 180-pound fullback of the Akron Kenmore Cardinals, who will help the Mansfield high school gridsters ring down the curtain on the Stadium field season.

Mansfield got a good look at Miller last fall when the Tygers tumbled the Kenmorites, 21 to 6, but it will see an even greater Miller Saturday.

Major Akron Threat.

The Kenmore team may not be as strong as the 1937 aggregation, but Miller remains one of the chief individual threats in Akron scholastic circles.

Miller has been named to a backfield post on the Akron all-city team in both his sophomore and junior years and is a virtual cinch to repeat this year, according to reports from the Rubber City.

The Kenmores have won only two out of six games, but are improving. Bob Elliott writes in the Akron Beacon-Journal: "Kenmore's Cardinals, vastly improved in the win over Central, are conceded a good chance of spilling the Tygers.

"Kenmore gave Mansfield a good battle last year, losing out to the individual brilliance of Johnny Hallabrin. There'll be no Hallabrin on hand this year, however, and Kenmore definitely rates a good chance."

Kenmore's 13 to 0 victory over Akron Central last week was one of the surprises of the Akron season. The setback dealt a stunning blow to Central's title hopes. It was undefeated in the city league up to this game. Miller scored both Akron touchdowns. A feature of the game was his 45-yard run in the fourth period, which set up the last score.

Against the strong Mansfield team of last year, Miller was a constant threat. He scored only one touchdown, but pulled off a number of nice runs.

Miller gave the Tygers a real scare in the first period when he was inserted into the lineup with Kenmore in possession of the ball

STUDENTS FAVOR CHANGE IN ATHLETIC POLICY

DELAWARE—(AP)—The student body of Ohio Wesleyan university is almost unanimously in favor of a drastic change in the school's intercollegiate athletic policy, first returns in a poll by the Transcript, student newspaper, disclosed today.

Ohio High School Coaches Rely on Movies, Too

By JIM EMERSON

COLUMBUS— (AP) —Hollywood studios and the big colleges don't have a monopoly on the production of football movies.

Evidence is accumulating that an increasing number of coaches of Ohio scholastic gridiron teams rely upon motion pictures of their players in practice and games to correct football errors.

And the season records of the large bloc of the "movie teams" would seem to bear out their success contentions. The mentors of four undefeated scholastic machines in northern Ohio joined today in "swearing by" this new gridiron teaching accessory.

Coach Paul E. Brown of Massillon, perhaps the state's No. 1 high school authority in view of the Tigers' perennial state championships, declared succintly: "Yes, Massillon takes movies. Works fine."

For the benefit of the uninformed, all the 1938 Tigers have done to date is roll up 160 points and allow 40 in six games against the toughest kind of opposition for an unbeaten, untied record.

Charles (Chuck) Campbell, whose Van Wert eleven not only boasts a perfect slate so far but an uncrossed line, said: "We use movies for instructional purpose. I find them excellent in actually showing the boy his mistakes. I have found it very superior to oral instruction."

Movies probably have helped Coach Roy Clymer's Elyria outfit remain unbeaten also. Clymer explained: "We find movies very helpful. We may tell a boy about his mistakes, but when he can see them he knows that his blocking and tackling will be shown to the squad and coaches, he will try harder to improve his mistakes."

Coach Angus King at Cincinnati Withrow agreed with Clymer on the "psychology" angle. He believed that movies were of "great interest" to the players.

Canton McKinley, another undefeated-untied eleven, takes pictures in slow motion to enable the individual boy to see his own mistakes, according to Coach John N. Reed.

Fordham Coach Refuses to Join Pittsburgh Boosters

CORNELL COACH DENIES HE'LL TAKE OVER COAST POST

By SID FEDER

(Pinch Hitting For Eddie Brietz)

NEW YORK—(AP)—Note to Tony Lazzeri, San Francisco: Is it the Brownies or an American association spot you have your eyes on, Signor? . . . And can it be you're just a leetle bit sorry about turning down Ossie Vitt's offer of a job with the Indians last season? . . . That's quite a trick the Minnesota coaches use for finding out when a groggy player should come out of a ball game. . . . They ask him, so the story goes, "who's your coach?" . . . If he answers, "Bernie Bierman," he stays in. . . . If he says "Ben Bernie," they yank him pronto. . . . Are ya lis'nin', Mr. Winchell? . . .

Cornell's Carl Snavely is so perturbed about those reports he'll be coaching on the Pacific coast next year that he's issuing an official denial . . . But his contract at Ithaca is up next March; UCLA is rumored looking for a new boss—So-o-o-o. . . . Minnesota is grooming a sprint candidate for the 1940 Olympics in Bob Johnson, snappy stepper from Sioux Falls, S. D. . . . What's this about Marshall college putting a standing offer of 10 G's on the line if West Virginia is willing to tangle with 'em this year or next? . . .

* * *

Sh-h-h—the secret's out. . . . The reason Louisiana State let Tulane grab ball-carrying Bo Kellogg was (1) 'Cause he's married and the Tigers turn thumbs down on benedicts . . . and (2) He played a year of junior college ball, so LSU heads decided 'twouldn't be worth while developing a player just for two years' work. . . . Reports from the west this week say Carnegie and Notre Dame played one of the hardest games of the year—and one of the cleanest . . . Only one 15-yard penalty for roughness, against the Irish. . . .

THE rave notices for hammerin' Hennery Armstrong's 35 kayoes in 39 bouts sort of overlook the fact that Ceferino Garcia, who'll fight the Hammer for the welterweight crown next Wednesday, is a pretty fair sleepmaker too. . . . He's put the crusher on in 11 of his last 12 starts. . . . Tex Oliver wishes his Oregon football squad would come up with some of the chunky boys instead of the rangy kind for a change. . . . When the chunky fellers hit the other guy, says Tex, they stay hit. . . . They play for keeps . . . Will Harry Stuhldreher kindly give us the lowdown on the six-foot-nine footballer, Don Timmerman, who, they say, will be heard from later at Wisconsin.

He'll Wait Till Game Saturday

Crowley Changes Rams' Defensive Setup as Pro Star Helps Team Improve Passing.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Jimmy Crowley said he didn't want to be stubborn about it but he couldn't yet agree with the wise boys who say the U. of Pittsburgh has the greatest football club of our time.

"They're good all right," said the sleepy-eyed but sharp-witted Fordham coach, "but I want to withhold my judgment until they've had a little pressure on them. If you notice their record you'll see they haven't had the heat on 'em yet."

"Do you think Fordham will provide that test Saturday?"

"We've done all right the past three years, haven't we?" he said, recalling those three scoreless ties Pitt and Fordham played. "But Saturday I don't know—maybe yes, maybe no."

What Scoring Tricks?

He was asked why Fordham uncovered several of its scoring tricks in the final period of the Oregon game, with the game already on ice.

"Why didn't you save them for Pitt?"

"I didn't know we had any scoring tricks until I saw them in that fourth period against Oregon," he laughed.

Crowley admitted that he was changing Fordham's defensive setup slightly and that Ed Danowski, former Ram who now is the leading passer of the National Professional league, had been helping instruct Fordham passers this week.

"I really expect there will be some scoring this time," he said. "Our problem is to be sure that we have a team composed of sure, hard-hitting tacklers in the game. Shoddy tackling won't stop fellows like Goldberg, Stebbins, Cassiano and Chickerneo."

They're Tough, Jim

Ed Kosky, former Notre Dame end who had been scouting Pittsburgh, turned over reports to Crowley with the following observations — Cassiano, shiftiest and most dangerous runner: Stebbins, hardest runner; Chickerneo most effective blocker, but entire backfield superior blockers. Goldberg, now playing fullback, not quite as efective on wide sweeps as he was at the tailback; Lezouski and Petro, two great guards; Daddio and Hoffman, exceptional ends, with Hoffman the faster and almost impossible to shake off, noticeable drop from the strength of the first team to the second; Pitt line averages 203; weight of backs, Chickerneo 213, Stebbins 203, Goldberg 200, and Cassiano 190.

TWO INDIANS, THREE REDS SELECTED ON ALL-STAR ROOKIE TEAM

Klinger Gordon Keltner Ambler Rizzo Heath Case Hershberger McCormick Vander Meer

By DILLON GRAHAM

NEW YORK—(AP)—This year's crop of fine rookies was about evenly divided between the two major leagues.

While there were several good infielders and outfielders for every position, the freshman pitchers were hardly up to standard, even though the season produced baseball's first double no-hit hurler in Cincinnati's Johnny Vander Meer.

The Reds possibly had more good rookies than any other club, with First-Baseman Frank (Buck) McCormick, Vander Meer, Catcher Willard Hershberger and Outfielders Harry Craft and Lee Gamble.

Rookies played a conspicuous part in the pennant races, too. Cincinnati's recruits kept the Reds in the National flag race up until the final week. Joe Gordon tightened the Yankee infield and added a punch that helped the New Yorkers garner their third successive bunting. Johnny Rizzo's big bat sparked the Pirates. Third-Baseman Ken Keltner and Outfielder Geoffrey Heath strengthened the Cleveland Indians.

Now that the long campaign has run its course, an accurate check-up on the rookies can be made for selection of a mythical all-star club.

Here are my nominations:

First Base: Buck McCormick, Cincinnati.

Second Base: Joe Gordon, New York Yankees.

Shortstop: Wayne Ambler, Philadelphia A's.

Right Field: Geoffrey Heath, Cleveland.

Center Field: George Case, Washington.

Catcher: Willard Hershberger, Cincinnati.

Pitcher: Bob Klinger, Pittsburgh.

Pitcher: John Vander Meer, Cincinnati.

McCormick was the outstanding rookie of the year. He was among the league's big five batters virtually all season. He led the loop in hits and batted in more than 100 runs. George McQuinn of the St Louis Browns was another fine first sacker.

Gordon had no competition at second base. He batted in more than 90 runs, hit 20-odd homers and fielded sensationally. Dario Lodigiani and Stanley Sperry played well for the Athletics while the Phillies liked Emmett Joe Mueller.

Keltner stood out among third sackers. He knocked in more than 100 runs and was among the batting leaders.

Ambler was the outstanding shortstop, although a light hitter. This was his first full season but he played in 50-odd games last year.

Rizzo's timely blows led the Pittsburgh attack. This Italian youngster was the first Pirate in years to hit 20 homers and he batted in upwards of 100 runs.

Heath got a late start with the Indians but came along strong. He wound up with a high stick average and propelled more than 100 runs across the dish.

Washington's Case was one of the fastest men to enter the American league in years. The Senators also had another fine hitting rookie in Taft Wright.

There was an abundance of good hitting flychasers. Henry Steinbacher of the Chicago White Sox. Melvin Mazzera of the St. Louis Browns, Erne Koy and Goody Rosen of Brooklyn, Sam Chapman of the Philadelphia A's, Enos Slaughter of the St. Louis Cardinals, Max West of the Boston Bees and Craft of Cincinnati. Manager Bill McKechnie believes Craft will become one of the National league's outstanding outfielders.

Hershberger and John Peacock of the Boston Red Sox were the ace receivers. Only the presence of the heavy-hitting Ernie Lombardi kept Hershberger from the No. 1 backstopping job with the Reds.

The right-handed Bob Klinger and Southpaw Johnny Vander Meer were the pitching leaders. Others who made good first-year records included Jim Bagby of the Boston Red Sox, John Humphries of Cleveland, and Dick Errickson of the Boston Bees.

FALSE TEETH

That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wabbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

Ex-Sandusky High School Stars to Appear Against Kallmerten-Baer Club Here Sunday

COACH GIP MILLER'S Kallmerten and Baer semi-pro team has another tough assignment cut out for it Sunday when the Simplex Radio club of Sandusky invades League park.

Although defeated in its five previous games by single touchdowns, the K-B combine is romping through practice this week with determination in a effort to chalk up the first win of the season.

In the Sandusky outfit, the Mansfielders face a dangerous eleven. Composed of former Sandusky high stars, the visitors came here Sunday supporting an impressive record. Their only defeat was suffered at the hands of the Lorain Collegiates, 6 to 0, last Sunday in the last 10 seconds of the game.

Heading the list of stars in Bud Krueger, former Sandusky high star and All-Ohio back. Mansfield fans will remember him as one of the main cogs of the powerful Sandusky high club that trounced Mansfield high several years ago.

Others in the starting lineup are Bud Sturtzinger, Johnny Mazea and Ed Dakm, erstwhile Sandusky high players, and Ed Miller, who formerly performed with the Philadelphia Eagles.

Vern Oklemacher, Sandusky high's line coach, and "Beat" Platt make up the coaching staff of the Radios.

BOWLING SCORES

FLOOD of the Tool Engineers rolled games of 192, 234 and 211 for a 637 total to lead the scoring in the Westinghouse plant league at the Meder alleys last night. It was the only 600 total registered in the league.

Team scoring honors were annexed by the Refrigeration Machines, who pounced on the wood for 2686 pins.

The Commercial C league will bowl the matches scheduled next Monday at the Meder alleys tonight. The bowling will get under way immediately after the B league. The change was made because Monday falls on Halloween.

ASKS COURT REVIEW

CHICAGO — (AP) — A superior court review of the Illinois boxing commission's action in revoking their licenses was asked today in a suit filed by Jimmy Adamick, Detroit boxer, and his manager, James Brady.

CANZONERI WINS

JERSEY CITY, N. J.—Tony Canzoneri, 140 New York, former featherweight and lightweight champion, outpointed Howard Scott, 138, Washington, (8)

Two Ohioans To Face Rams

Monnett, Miller Play With Packers in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND—Cleveland's grid Rams Sunday afternoon will make their final home stand of the current National football league campaign when they meet the Green Bay Packers, only four times world champions in the history of pro football, at League park.

The Packers, victors over the locals by a slight margin in a dingdong battle which opened the season at Wisconsin, bring to town one of the truly great professional aggregations.

Not a team in the league can boast of a passing combine to compare with their famous Arnie Herber to Don Hutson aerial act Then they have Andy Uram and Cecil Isbell, two of the nation's greatest collegiate ball luggers of last season now carrying for them, to say nothing of Bobbie Monnett of Michigan State and a host of others.

Monnett, a product of Bucyrus, is one of the two Buckeye state members of the invaders. The other is Ookie Miller, veteran center from Akron, formerly with the Rams who was traded to the Packers just before the season opened in exchange for tackle Phil Ragazzo of Western Reserve who has proved to be one of the best linemen in the circuit in his debut year.

The Packers invade with the National league's highest scoring backs having aggregated a total of 140 points in winning five of their seven starts in league play to pace the league's western division.

CANCEL GRID GAMES

DAYTON—(U.P.)—Six Dayton high schools were forced today to cancel 13 games remaining on their 1938 football schedules because of the closing of the city public schools until Dec. 3 and possibly Jan. 1, 1939.

ORANGE N J—Patsy Perroni, 187, Cleveland, outpointed Roy Lazer, 199, Paterson N J, (10).

MILLER TO BEAR WATCHING

on Mansfield's 31.

Scores on Third Play.

On the first play, Miller was held to a two-yard gain on a sweep. Without interference, he swept to his right on the next play and zig-zagged his way to the five before Hallabrin brought him down from behind with a shoestring tackle. He scored on the next play.

Miller never crossed the goal line again, but the Tygers kept their eyes on the fleet Kenmorite the rest of the way.

All of the Tygers came out of the Shelby whipping in fairly good shape except Howard Hershey, and the entire team will be ready for the Cardinals, including the injured halfback.

Raymon Montaso thrilled by farm toy

Gosh, how time flies! Christmas here already? No, but with a preview of the Yule toys already given in New York, Santa Claus must be on his way. Among the thousands of toys displayed this year is this farm combination. Little Raymond Montaso of New York seems to think they're grand.

In New Mexico WPA Probe

Divorcing Jockey

Jane Hebditch McCombs (above), 16-year-old wife of Kenneth McCombs, well known jockey, has filed suit at Havre de Grace, Md., for annulment of their marriage. She allegedly declared the marriage was a joke, that their ages were falsified in obtaining the license.

Interviewing a Star-Maker

Mme. Elizabeth Major, Hollywood's famous vocal coach and singing teacher, is shown (right) as she was interviewed in New York by Miss Frankie Basch, roving reporter for a New York radio station. Mme. Major, whose pupils include Norma Shearer, Basil Rathbone, Joel McCrea and Arleen Whalen, advocated a study of singing for all non-professionals as an aid to achieving a proper speaking voice.

Two Women Battle for Adopted Baby

Mrs. William Buttery (left) weeps as she tells of her love for Betty Lou Fracos, the baby shown at the right with Mrs. Walter Brown. The child was born out of wedlock to a housemaid in a Norwalk, Conn., home. Through a misunderstanding, adoption papers were taken out by both families, who reside in Westport, Conn. Judge Austin Wakefield, of Westport, has the task of a Solomon in deciding whether Mrs. Buttery or Mrs. Brown gets the child. (Central Press)

THEATERS

A HUSBAND and wife team will play the leads in "Escape From Leavenworth". Frances Farmer and Lief Erikson have been married three years . . . The Ice Follies that will appear in Joan Crawford's picture of that name is the same troupe that many Mansfielders saw as the ice ballet at the Cleveland Exposition last year . . . Shades of Pavlova! The revival of the can-can in "Zaza" has prompted the Ballet de Russe de Monte Carlo to include a classical interpretation of it in a new ballet . . . And under the new Actors Guild wage law, the screen cowboys have to punch time clocks.

Hopalong Goes South.

Hopalong Cassidy crosses the Rio Grande for action in his latest adventure, "In Old Mexico", which brings William Boyd and his saddle mates, George Hayes and Russell Hayden, to the Madison tomorrow and Saturday. Hopy goes to the aid of an old friend below the border, meets a beautiful sister, but finds his friend murdered—the name of the murderer written in the sand. In this new adventure Hopy has to fight a woman as well as a man.

Adds to Play.

Robert Riskin's clever adaption of the stage play, "You Can't Take It With You", has much to do with making the picture the success that it is. He has added many flashing bits of dialogue, extended the story and added one new character—the little man who "makes things". The picture will be shown at the Ohio throughout the week.

Jackie Grows Up.

Jackie Cooper, one of the lucky juvenile players who hasn't been forced into obscurity by growing up, plays the leading role in "Boy of the Street" at the Park. He started when a very small boy, reached his peak co-starring with Wallace Beery, and was recently seen here in Deanna Durbin's picture "That Certain Age"—almost a grown-up Jackie.

"Marco Polo" at Majestic.

One of the most spectacular films of the year—and one of the costliest—will be a Majestic attraction tomorrow and Saturday. It is "The Adventures of Marco Polo," with Gary Cooper as the dashing adventurer, and Sigrid Gurie as the Chinese princess who fell in love with a "traveling man." Basil Rathbone and Binnie Barnes are featured. The second feature is a two-gun picture with Jack Randolph.

The chief product of Siam is rice. Other exports are tin and tin ore and rubber.

STOCK MARKET STIMULATED BY BUSINESS HOPE

Leading Issues Push Up Fractions to More Than Point in Improved Mart.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market felt better today, after Wednesday's breathing spell, and leading issues pushed up fractions to a point or more.

Business hopes, on the whole, continued as the principal stimulant.

Prominent on the resumption of the upswing were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Kennecott, Celanese, N. Y. Central, Southern Railway, Sears Roebuck and U. S. Rubber.

Bonds improved and most foreign securities markets were higher. Commodities were slightly mixed.

Among items receiving attention of market analysis were: Last week's freight loadings, officially reported tomorrow, were estimated to have declined about 17,000 cars from the previous week.

The Dun & Bradstreet summary of bank clearings in 22 cities for the week ended Oct. 26, disclosed a decrease of 10.4 per cent from the corresponding week last year, compared with a year-to-year recession in the previous week of .5 to 1 per cent.

Figures of the federal reserve board indicated volume of industrial production recorded a further advance in September to 90 per cent of the 1923-25 average on the board's seasonally adjusted index, the highest level since October, a year ago.

'INSURGENTS' BACK SAWYER

Cuyahoga Democrats, Headed by Miller, to Support 'Entire Ticket.'

"we have developed a situation which makes it impossible for anyone without big financial backing to be a senator.

"If such a system can be established . . . a senate controlled by the moneyed interests would be one more step in their control of the economic and social life of our country."

Former Gov. George White took the stump for Sawyer last night, telling a Wooster audience that Sawyer "will not only be a good governor but a great governor," and praising his views on state government.

"I know Charley Sawyer well. He served as lieutenant-governor of Ohio—and served most ably—during my second term as governor of the state.

"Mr. Sawyer is committed to a policy of progressive, economical and sound state governmental policies."

Challenges Sawyer on 'Boss' Backing.

CANTON—(AP)—John W. Bricker, Republican candidate for governor, defied Charles Sawyer last night to explain "the active support of notorious politicians" which he claimed his Democratic opponent has received.

"How can he be for good government when he has the active support of notorious political bosses like Francis Poulson, Burr Gongwer, Billy Leonard and John Nolan?" Bricker asked.

The candidate said a bureau of industry within the state department of commerce should be established to "bring back industries which have left the state, encourage those which are here and assist with new ideals to start new enterprises."

"I am growing tired of hearing certain industrial areas referred to as distressed communities or ghost cities," Bricker said.

Taft Hits Tax Burden on Poor.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Robert A. Taft, Republican senatorial nominee, said in a campaign address last night that under the New Deal "the tax burden is borne by the poor man."

"New Deal talk of taxing the rich is just talk," Taft told a party rally. "If all incomes above $5,000 a year were totally confiscated, the process would not pay the cost of the federal government for five months."

Taft cited pay roll, sales and excise taxes as those which drain the average man's income.

"Under the New Deal the average income is less, unemployment has increased and WPA is only a temporary relief," he added.

DIES IN CHAIR

Farmer's Slayer Says 'You Can't Get Out of Here.'

COLUMBUS—(INS)—The population of death row at Ohio penitentiary was down to 12 for the first time in months today after Sam Thomas, 23, colored, paid with his life for the slaying of Francis Ruiz, Hamilton county farmer.

Thomas smiled faintly as he was led into the death chamber and said in an undertone: "Well, I guess you can't get out of here."

OLDEST GRANGER 94

ATHENS—(UP)—Believed the oldest person ever initiated into the Grange, Henry Dixon, 94-year-old Civil war veteran, made a short talk after induction into the Albany Grange.

Russia Shakes Up Military Leaders, Mystery Deepens

MOSCOW—(UP)—Russia's formidable Far Eastern army has been divided into two separate commands, it was disclosed today, and Far Eastern Siberia has been divided into two administrative districts.

Field Marshal Vassily Bluecher, the foremost military figure in all Russia, is not included in the new set up. Though the mystery attaching to his status was deepened, it was made certain, apparently, that he is no longer the commander in chief in the Far East.

Confirmation of the long reported change in the Far East came indirectly, as is often the case in Russia, in an article in the newspaper, Komsomolkaya Pravda, the organ of the Young Communist league, which often reflects even before Pravda, the official organ of the Communist party, the trend of affairs in the Soviet Union.

Komsomolkaya Pravda published an article containing the biography of Corps Commander C. M. Cern as commander of "the first special red banner Far Eastern army of the Soviet Union."

ATTACKS LINDY AS PRO-GERMAN

French Aviation Publication Hits Honor Conferred By Nazis.

PARIS—(INS)—An attack upon Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, charging him with being pro-German and unfriendly to France, appeared today in the French weekly aviation publication La Vie Aerienne.

The article recalled the recent Russian attack upon the famous airman and added:

"There is no doubt that the colonel does not like the French, which he has proved on many occasions, as he has said the German air force was capable of beating the combined air forces of Britain, France, Czechoslovakia and Russia.

"Thus we understand the enthusiasm with which Lindbergh is received in Germany and why he is given such high distinctions."

U. S. OBSERVES NAVY DAY

WASHINGTON—(AP)—America observed Navy day today, with gala, bunting-draped displays of her sea forces, but there was a serious note in the festivities.

While the naval service decked out in holiday array afloat and ashore to receive millions of visitors, the sober business of building a fleet designed to meet any aggression went steadily on behind the scenes.

POLICE TRY OUT TWO-WAY RADIO

Bates Shows What Cruisers Could Do With Equipment in Demonstration.

and we drove down Park avenue while the chief still held the microphone in his hand.

It was less than a minute when he replied: "Car 2 to headquarters—subway clear. No water."

But he did observe a barricade on which a red lantern had gone out, and which the chief said created a traffic hazard.

"Car 2 to headquarters—lantern on barricade at subway gone out. Have it replaced."

"Okay," was the reply and Dispatcher O. D. Fair signed off.

We rolled out Ashland road, over Central avenue and then back towards Main on Orange street. It was time to report, Bates said, and explained that patrolmen on cruisers were required to call headquarters every 15 minutes.

But instead of pulling up at a call box and leaving the car, he took the "mike" again.

"Car 2 to WQFY—reporting at box No. 96."

"Okay, car 2," was the answer.

Around the corner on Main street the chief sighted what he said was a suspicious looking car. "We'll get a license check on the machine," he explained.

"Car 2 to headquarters, give us a license check on WQ ——, please."

"Okay car 2," was the reply as we pulled to the curb. And then the report from headquarters: "License WQ —— issued to Joe Doaks, 1,000 Upton boulevard, Mansfield, for 1929 Ford coach, motor number AA 123456."

The description tallied and the chief didn't bother to check the motor number. He was demonstrating what could be accomplished.

We headed out North Main street and then over to Springmill to Roseland when he was asked for a report on road conditions in that vicinity.

It was given and then the receiver bawled: "Car 2 go to the B. O. crossing on North Mulberry street and pick up two suspects wanted for questioning by detectives." Their descriptions were given.

In less than a minute the car was on the spot and Bates reported to headquarters that both men had been apprehended and he was on the way in.

Back at the station several councilmen had been witnessing the demonstration. They reported that the signal strength of the five-watt mobile unit had been distinct and all were impressed with the operation.

"Just the thing and very satisfactory," was the comment. Bates explained that the units could be installed in the four police cruisers for less than $700 and would place the Mansfield department on a level with any in the country—even Cleveland which only recently laid out $50,000 to equip its entire fleet.

COUNTY SALES TAX RECEIPTS DROP ONE-THIRD

Collection for First 9 Months of Year 31 Per Cent Under Same Period in 1937.

Sales tax receipts for the first nine months of this year in Richland county dropped off 31.12 per cent from the collections for the same period of 1937, State Treasurer Clarence H. Knisley reported today.

Although Richland county was one of the last in the state to show a decrease in sales tax collections, the county's 1938 decrease was considerably more than the Ohio average of 26.31 per cent.

The treasurer's figures show that $303,183 was collected in the county in sales tax to Oct. 1 this year as compared with $440,519 in the same period last year.

Drop 10 Millions In State.

In the entire state, receipts for the nine months this year amounted to $27,625,486 as against $37,791,190 last year.

The effect of the business recession in the county was shown in the sales tax receipts for the first week in October in which $9.905 was collected, or $2,617 less than for the same week last year.

Every county in Ohio showed a decline in receipts this year with Vinton county leading the list with 39.54 per cent. Sandusky county was second with a 38.10 per cent decline. The decline ranged downward to 12.46 per cent in Monroe county.

The decrease of more than one-fourth in the state's sales tax income was blamed for a major part of the school foundation program deficit and the shrinking budgets of a number of municipalities. Most of the schools' funds come from the sales tax receipts, and local sub-divisions receive a part of their operating funds from the same source.

CAGEY FARMER TRAPS THIEVES

Feathers, Leaves Identify Stolen Wheat.

DUFRESNE, Man.—(AP)—Troubled by grain thefts, Leon Laurin had an idea. He concealed chicken feathers and leaves torn from mail order catalog in all his bags of wheat.

After the next theft, Laurin and officers traced some suspects and found them hauling 70 bushels. The two men claimed the wheat came from their own farm, but Laurin plunged his arm into it and pulled out his "markers." Result, the two were arrested.

2 BOYS SENT TO LANCASTER

Pair From Children's Home, One a Runaway, Placed in Industrial School.

One of two youths who ran away from the Richland county children's home last Saturday and were captured a few hours later, was ordered sent to the Boys' Industrial school at Lancaster yesterday by Judge C. J. Anderson in juvenile court.

Sentenced to the Industrial school at the same time was another youth at the home who was involved in the theft of clothing and money at the county institution, Judge Anderson said. The sentences were for indefinite periods.

The youths who received sentence, one of whom is 14 and the other 15 years of age, confessed the theft of clothing valued at $25 and a small amount of cash at the home. Both had been involved in a number of petty thefts in the city in recent years, juvenile records showed.

The second runaway, a 14-year-old youth, was warned by Judge Anderson and returned to the home. He had a good record and apparently had been coaxed into helping the older boy make an attempted get-away with the stolen clothing, Judge Anderson said.

The runaways were apprehended in Perrysville Sunday morning and returned to Mansfield by Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman. A part of their loot of clothing was recovered from a corn shock near Lucas while they had the rest of it with them.

The boys under sentence to the Industrial school were to be taken to Lancaster today by Ralph Carroll, county juvenile officer.

BIBLE TO FARM

Three Ohio Ministers Operate Cooperative Orchard.

COSHOCTON—(U.P.)—Three ministers here are combining religion and farming by operating a co-operative fruit farm.

On Sundays each of the trio—the Rev. Paul R. Olinger, the Rev. R. H. Loy, and the Rev. R. D. Robinson—preach in three Methodist churches in Keene, Roscoe and Canal Lewisville. On week days, the three don overalls, and work on a 187-acre tract they have leased here.

The object of the experiment is not based on the proverb, "As ye sow, so shall ye reap," the clergymen said.

Our purpose is to give the three townships the services of three men, where but one served previously," the Rev. Olinger said, crossing his overalled legs and chewing on a blade of grass. "In order to do this we must stretch one man's salary — $1700 — and make it support three. We simply will pool our profits from fruit-farming and dairying to make up the difference."

The three have replaced the Rev. Harry Stewart, who had been obliged to look after the three churches.

THINKS HE'S 70

OMAHA, Neb.—(AP)—Joseph P. Gallagher says he is 70, but is having a difficult time proving it so he might qualify for a pension.

He couldn't find records of his birth, baptism, first communion or confirmation.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1938.

Civilization has entered the mountain goat era, and spends much time leaping from crisis to crisis.

Those who urge "justice for all" might do well to keep in mind that prisons are already overcrowded.

There is some talk of reviving the old song, "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" so as to make it also applicable to daughter.

Politics Holds the Spotlight.

WITH election day little more than a week away, Ohio voters are side-line observers of one of the most intense off-year campaigns ever conducted in this state.

An advantage in this is the opportunity afforded for all voters to become better informed on candidates and issues than might otherwise be the case.

While party lines are being maintained—for appearance sake—this year's campaign involves much more than mere expression of political party preference, with the peculiarity that each of the major contests introduces angles of its own that are entirely aside from what are ordinarily regarded as Democratic or Republican principles.

This may be expected to result in an unusual amount of independent voting, with little regard for "straight" tickets, except by those who are told to put an "X" at the top of one or the other tickets, without doing any thinking for themselves.

Revival of the debate method of presenting issues, as adopted by Bulkley and Taft in the senatorial battle, naturally holds the spotlight of public interest and quite accurately presents the contentions of the opposing schools of thought as to the federal administration.

In the Sawyer-Bricker race for governor there are also elements that make the contest more interesting than might ordinarily be anticipated—with apparent earnest determination to rid the state of the stigma brought upon it within the past few years.

Choice of congressman in this district marks the most definite departure from party lines that can be imagined, with the Townsend old-age pension plan appearing as the dominant issue in the contest between present Congressman William A. Ashbrook, expressing opposition to the "plan" and Walter W. Woodward, his opponent, campaigning as an avowed Townsendite.

An odd phase in this contest is that Congressman Ashbrook has long been known for his ardent support of sound pension legislation and his concern for the welfare of pensioners.

Other contests, district and county, serve to enliven interest in the election a week from next Tuesday, with several important issues to be decided in Richland county and Mansfield.

Even for those who do not care for politics as a year-round diet, there is plenty in the present campaign to attract and hold interest of voters during the next ten days.

Real Dangers to Democracy.

THE average American is wary of communism, fascism or other foreign "isms" which he believes may slip through our borders surreptitiously and destroy freedom and democracy as he knows it. Yet it is highly probable, as Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler has pointed out, that the great threat to American democracy lies within our own borders. Abuse of taxing power, gradual centralization of government, and a growing bureaucracy are a few of the evils that are insidiously undermining democracy from within, observes Dr. Butler.

Political demagogues have taught millions of persons to believe that the way to better things lies in the destruction of wealth, or "redistribution of wealth," which is another way of putting it. The taxing power of government is being used to do the job. Instead of seeking to create more wealth, more production, and a higher standard of living, the country is backtracking. The people are confused. They are allowing public money to be used to destroy taxpaying enterprises and private jobs under the delusion that they are thereby establishing "social justice," "social security," or some Utopian condition that appeals to mass sentiment.

There is only one solution of this problem—public education! Just as the three R's, readin', 'riting and 'rithmetic, are taught to every child, so must the simple fundamentals of economics—the bread and butter side of life, the obligation to save—be taught to every individual, child and adult alike. Only in this way can democracy ultimately survive.

Bingo-Crazy.

GAMBLING for charity is usually less productive of funds than is claimed. That is what an inquiring reporter learned when he began asking questions about a lot of bingo games permitted by the authorities as "social parties" dedicated to raising money for charitable causes.

There are 100 or so such parties every week in the community studied. Hundreds of men and women of every age spend their evenings in crowded, smoke-filled halls, putting dried beans on numbered squares. They pay varying sums for this privilege or pleasure. All of them hope to win money or prizes. Few of them ever do.

Questioned about the causes the games are supposed to support, most players said they knew nothing about that side of it. Those who looked beyond their bingo cards and beans usually admitted frankly that there probably wasn't any money for philanthropy after the promoters of the social parties had taken out their expenses and profits.

A few of the promoters said they weren't even making anything for themselves, which makes them look as foolish as the players. Yet hundreds of dollars a night are said to go into such games. Is it because of the perennial hope to get something for nothing, or the lack of better entertainment or mental occupation?

The remark of a Kansas City school boy indicates later candidacy for public office. Says he: "I'm not the least bit conceited. In fact, I'm even better than I think I am."

A report from Paris says French and British war debts to this country will be settled after the fall election. Why wait?

A posy for the schoolgirl who defines "ubiquitous" as "like Mrs. Roosevelt."

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Probably congress finally will be asked to settle this business of whether a man, or his wife, or both, must spring from bed to stand rigid when the national anthem is played over the radio at all hours of the night.

Meantime it is a problem of acute national concern. It is more personally acute for Mrs. Elizabeth Faff of Glendale, Long Island, whose letter of inquiry was transmitted to Mayor LaGuardia. Promptly at 10 p. m. while she was lying in bed letting the radio sing her to sleep it suddenly began playing the Star Spangled Banner.

Mr. Faff is a patriotic man so he bounded out of bed and stood respectively at attention in his night clothes. He made Mrs. Faff do likewise. She doubted the justice of the business and her plea reached Mayor LaGuardia.

"Please do not think for one moment that I am not patriotic," she pleaded, "but it is rather upsetting."

Rise and Face the Music.

THE problem she raises is more than upsetting. Mayor LaGuardia looked up many of the references and also asked the navy.

Sit down, if only the family is at home, said the navy. If company is present, it is all right to stand. The Daughters of the American Revolution had further instructions. If no flag is at hand to be faced, simply rise and face the music.

Now with a radio, it is different. If you are tuned in on a New York station do you face east if you live in the west? Or do you face the radio? Facing the radio, it seems to this correspondent, is simply a subterfuge. There is no music there. The music is in the broadcasting studio, perhaps thousands of miles away.

Moreover, on a quiet fall evening a dozen radios can be heard within easy earshot of our apartment as we sit in the back door taking in the fresh air and coal smoke from the Baltimore and Ohio. Which radio do we face? We can hear them all at once.

Patriots Must Be Agile.

WHAT if the national anthem should be broadcast over a national hook-up? The nation would be on its feet facing in all directions.

We called on the army to dispose of this matter and its view should be comforting to Mrs. Faff. If she and Mrs. Faff are outside when the anthem is played, either sitting or in bed, they should rise. Army officers would, we were told. But if Mr. and Mrs. Faff are at home abed when the radio brings the national anthem forth, they may patriotically lie there.

Nothing is official on the business. Army regulations simply do not mention radio music. But official sources suggest that indoors the rules are off. During the late war many theaters played the Star Spangled Banner between acts and after every showing of the feature picture. Audiences picked up their wraps and stood. But as the war waned, the custom petered out.

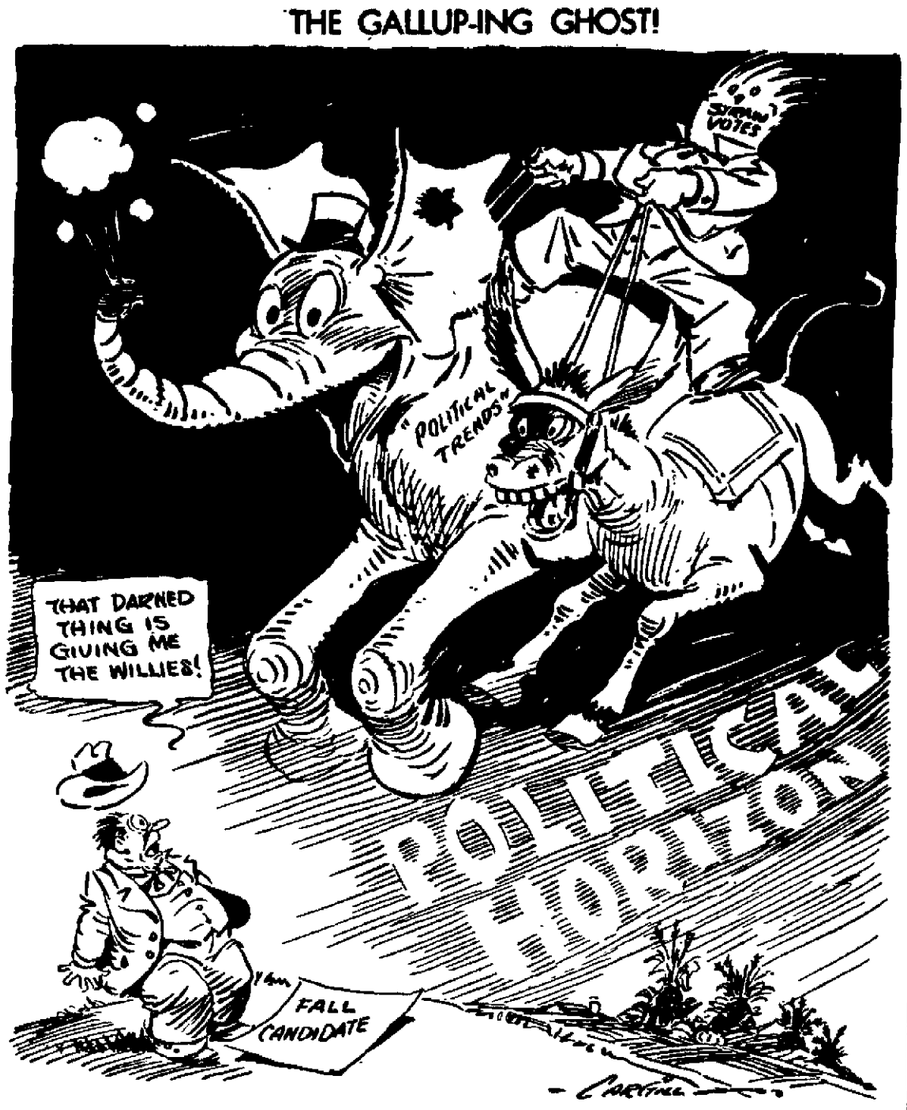
THE GALLUP-ING GHOST!



Want Palestine's Door Held Open

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—A new and interesting division has occurred in New Deal ranks in Washington, and for the first time there is the possibility that Secretary of State Cordell Hull may be involved in a real factional dispute. This dispute may involve Hull because it is directly concerned with foreign policy. One group thinks that the United States should take a firm stand against religious and racial persecution, as it considers it, and should back up Great Britain in Palestine, but insists, and there comes the real point of difference, that Britain should hold Palestine's door open to immigration of persecuted Jews from Europe.

There was not enough difference to be noticeable on this Palestine question until rumors came that Britain was about to make peace with the Arabs on the pledge that no further Jewish immigration would be permitted. Then there were quick repercussions from surprisingly widely separated groups in this country. To cite just one, Joseph P. Tumulty, wartime secretary to President Wilson, telegraphed the White House in protest against any restriction on Jewish immigration for Palestine.

NOW it so happens that the one criticism which the left wing element of the New Deal has been making of Secretary Hull has to do, in part, with a question of British foreign policy. It has concerned the Spanish civil war, with the left wingers insisting that the so-called neutrality policy of embargo against belligerents actually helped France and hurt the Loyalists. But their attack on Secretary Hull has been invariably made on the point that they believed Hull was doing what he did with regard to Spain not because of any personal preferences in the Spanish fight, but because it fitted in with British policy, the British having wanted France to win.

Bearing in mind what has happened to every one who fought Hull in this Administration, notably George Peek and Ray Moley, left wingers were a little loath to stick their necks out. So they invariably attempted to fasten all the blame on Sumner Welles, the under secretary of state, and the so-called "career boys" in the department of state, especially as it has always seemed comparatively easy to enrage the public against the "spatted teacup balancers," who "ape the British both in accent and clothes," etc. Actually they were hitting at Hull over the career boys' shoulders, because the notion that anybody in his department can do anything important that Hull really disapproves is good for a laugh anywhere in Washington, even among a group of left wingers.

The campaign, nevertheless, has been carried on persistently, the left wingers "leaking" allegedly interesting incidents of how the wool was being pulled over Hull's eyes to their favorite newspaper writers, and always with Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, as the master mind in the strategy, and the teacup balancers the eager stooges.

BE THAT as it may, the left wingers have reinforcements in their determination to force Cordell Hull's hand, and to insist that the "hands across the sea" business with England must come to an immediate end unless Britain goes down the line for the creating of a political refuge in Palestine for all of Europe's persecuted Jews.

Britain does not like the picture at all. She broke the agreement she had authorized D. H. Lawrence to make with the Arabs during the World war; yielding to just this sort of pressure. Now she is afraid if she pushes the Arabs too hard she will have trouble with all her Moslem subjects and neighbors, and plenty of Orientals who are not Moslems.

Timely Editorial

Alien Propagandists.

The term "class struggle" repeatedly gets into testimony before the house committee investigating un-American activities. It has been heard elsewhere increasingly of late years. Unfortunately, much of the political appeal of recent years has been calculated to arouse class feeling.

But America has never been a nation of classes and should not become one now. "Class struggle" is an alien concept. It suggests antagonism, strife and ill feeling. Only unrest can prevail where it operates. People who preach class struggle belong in an old world atmosphere.—Kansas City Star.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

TOO MUCH OF LUXURY

Too much of luxury can wear
The heart to weariness,
Can make it crave the simple dreams,
Proclaim them as the best.

So heavy-hearted often go
Those by great wealth set up
Above the multitude, they drink
Sometimes a bitter cup.

This we all know or should know, this,
That simple pleasures give
Us, after all, the greatest joy
And are the dreams that live

For ever cherished in the heart.
The autumn's gold, a clear,
Fine day, the stars, the night, these things
Remain always most dear.

Expression of Opposition To Judicial Amendment

Editor, News-Journal:

Following are a few of many reasons why Ohio voters should vote "No" to the proposed constitutional amendment for the appointment of judges of the supreme court and court of appeals and, optionally, the other courts of the state:

Those who favor the proposal say that it will take the judiciary out of politics — but, let us see. Briefly, the amendment proposes that when a vacancy occurs "the judicial council" shall hand up to the governor from three to five names. The governor selects the appointee from such list, who must be confirmed by the senate. From the time the judicial council, made up of lawyers and judges, is chosen, until the senate confirms, it must be assumed that there will be a constant byplay and horseplay of politics to see that the "right man" gets in. After that the appointee will hold his office for life and never have to run against anybody; but each six years he will run on his record and may be rejected by the voters, who will have nothing more than a whispering campaign to guide them as he will have no opponent.

From 1802 until 1859 all judges in Ohio were appointed by the governor, or the legislature, but the people of Ohio found that neither system was satisfactory and by constitutional provision subjected the judicial selection to the will and conscience of the people; and for over eighty-five years the people of Ohio have elected their judges.

Do the people of Ohio want to give up this right, after having enjoyed it so long? To vote "yes" on such a proposal would be equivalent to saying, "We, the people of Ohio, having elected our judges for eighty-five years, now find that we are incompetent to do that, and now turn it over to somebody else, who is more capable to do the job for us."

But, of course, those who defend this proposed mode, profess to think that the judge would be independent, for thus chosen he would not have to go to the people for his election and would be a better judge; but, the judge should certainly be answerable to the people for his conduct. It is better that he should be answerable to the people of Ohio than to a governor, who appointed him for political reward, senators who confirmed his appointment after political maneuvers, or to a judicial council chosen in any one of the hundred of ways known to politicians serving this or that special or selfish interest.

Certainly everyone ought to vote "No" to any proposed constitutional change, unless the need is so clear and overwhelming as to amount practically to a necessity.

The value of the democratic process lies not in the surrender of rights and responsibility of voters but rather in their exercise. It must be assumed that if the people are too ignorant or stupid to select their own judges, that the passage of such an amendment would soon be followed by other amendments for the appointment of governor and legislators.

While popular vote does not always result in the selection of best material for any office, it is the best method known; and, it must be assumed that if the people have enough sense to choose their senators and other legislators to make the laws, their governor to execute the laws, that they do have enough intelligence to continue to elect their judges to interpret the laws.

What Do You Really Say?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHAT did you say—What did you REALLY say—When you passed that old feud of yours this morning.

You know—the fellow who used to work in the same office with you. The one you had a big brawl with last year and have hardly spoken to since. Or the woman who used to live across the hall from you in the same apartment house, who was always snooping and borrowing your best covered dishes—

What did you really say when you met them on your way to work? Yes, I know, you smiled . . . made a pleasant comment . . . asked about the baby or the job. That's what you said with your mouth.

BUT WHAT WERE YOU SAYING WITH YOUR TRUE SELF . . . WITH YOUR TRUE VOICE WHICH SPEAKS INSIDE YOU AND WHICH NO ONE BUT YOU EVER HEARS?

You weren't mumbling polite pleasantries with that inner voice, were you? Anything but! Wager you anything, your inner comment — your real words — ran something like this "Contemptible rat! Wonder why they let a heel like that live! Like to take it out of his filthy hide, I would! Cheating little crook . . . Thought he outsmarted me, didn't he? But he didn't! I'm wise to guys like that; any time they think they can put anything over me—"

Or like this—

"There's that terrible woman again! I might have known she would pop up and spoil my day! Heavens, how I hate women like that — always sneaking, spying, trying to get around you! Ugh! I bet her husband hates her, too. Poor fellow—I certainly used to be sorry for him. And I guess he knew it. He usta look at me; come to think of it, he wasn't hard to take, either. Maybe it's conceited, but I wouldn't wonder if he kinda liked me—"

Those — your REAL words — chances are you'll indignantly deny them! YOU don't say hateful things like that . . . silly, conceited, sappy things . . .

OH, DON'T YOU?

Take it from me, brother and sister, you'd be surprised to know what you think! You'd not only be surprised, but you'd probably be changed for life—if you could hear your real self talking for just five minutes.

Chances are, you've never seen your real self—never heard your real voice. For years you've seen and listened to a Self that doesn't exist, save in your own imagination. A kindly, fair, honest, civilized Self that has no more relationship to your barbaric reality than a butterfly has to a baboon! And one glimpse of your TRUE SELF would probably do more for you than a century of sermons.

We never really know ourselves —we can never change or save ourselves — until we have seen that TRUE SELF. That's what Christ meant when he said that we must "become as little children."

We must strip away all our home-made fantasies . . . our poses and pretenses . . . before we can know what we're all about . . . before we can see the secret roots of the amazing things we do or leave undone.

All of which came to me when I watched John Beal last night in Victor Victor's tremendous new play "SOLILOQUY." "Soliloquy" is as old as life itself in its theme but utterly new on the stage. It's a story of a man's inner thoughts —a spineless little clerk who became a killer because he had never known what he was all about . . . because he had lived in dreams and never faced his own true thoughts or desires. Now, in this play, you see him as he never saw himself—for, as he acts his part, a sound track gives you his inner voice—the voice of that secret self which revealed the truth about him.

It's a tremendous experience to see "Soliloquy" — an experience which no one should miss and for which every one who sees it will be grateful, IF HE HAS THE COURAGE TO APPLY IT TO HIMSELF.

Go and see that play! Then—I dare you—turn your ears inward to your own reality. You'll be surprised!

Favors Sound Pension Legislation.

Editor, News-Journal:

In your issue of Oct. 17 you pointed to improving times and on the 19th, you took up the subject of aid for the aged—pensions. These and many other views as expressed in The News-Journal editorial columns, of late especially, are appreciated and commended by the writer, and others. I read the first Mansfield Daily News issue, the first Mansfield Journal issue, the present News-Journal from the first paper it printed, also.

Personally, I have always favored sound legislation in the interest of all, for the plain reason that legislation that is not in the cause of equal rights to all and special privileges to none is not, in the opinion of the writer, sound. Therefore, while I have reached the old age pension year, I am decidedly not in favor of "rocking the boat" or advocating an unreasonable amount weekly (California) or monthly and, naturally, one that would not "stand up" and be continued as for example the Townsend plan, howsoever well intentioned by its author.

I fail to see where an old age pension, one that the recipient would be required to entirely spend each month, or suffer its discontinuance, giving it all to the other fellow and close the month without a nickel or a red cent for myself, would be beneficial to me or the masses, and why!

Simply because the "other fellow," or fellows, would know without being told that the plan would not hold out, but for a short time and as for himself, he would hoard it, plant it so deep down in his pocket that it would be difficult to reach, and very decidedly against increasing the money in actual circulation. It would be the exact reverse of that, and what a shame it is to separate old folks, and others, from their nickels and dimes in the vain hope that a grand pension would be paid him every month as long as he lived, including women of the prescribed age, of course.

So what should be done? The answer is, simply to vote for and support those who will favor the sound legislation for the purpose of paying a fair increase and later hope that it be again increased.

Reducing the problem to terms of an old-fashioned saying — "a bird in hand is worth several in the bush."

"We know "Pension Bill" Ashbrook as an unusually deserving candidate for representative in congress, and those receiving pensions of any kind or who expect to receive national and state aid for the aged, should not only vote for, but advocate his election regardless of political affiliations.

A Farmer's Diary

The Home Site.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

TWO friends of mine and I rode high along the northern crest of a wide-spread valley. The slanting rays of the sun made the slow winding streams gleam like glittering threads. Corn shocks stood like little spires upon the hillsides. Clover and wheat fields made patches of hardy green among the flaming forests.

Occasionaaly an automobile moved east or west along the valley road, trailed by a cloud of dust. Diminutive teams in distant fields crept slowly over the plowed ground. A large fish crane flew along the nearest stream. Squirrels barked shyly in the trees three hunded yards below.

"This is the kind of place we want," he said, as he pointed to a clear field near the road. "One couldnt get lonesome here—or penned in, like in town. This view is marvelous. I never saw this place before, and its like a new world stretching out before me. It makes a man bigger . . ." His wife stood at his side, in silent admiration. "We've been looking for quite a while for a place to build a house," she admitted. "We know just what we want it to look like, but sometimes we've been discouraged and thought it could never happen."

"This location makes me feel like staying," he admitted. "How about you?"

She nodded. "These are the wide open spaces that we've dreamed about. And Henry, you could build a garage first. We could live in that until the house is done."

"I could drive into town every morning, and home to this hilltop at night . . . it'd sure change things . . ." His voice trailed off into a kind of awed soliloquy.

I shared with these two friends the joy of finding a new view, an ideal home site. I share with them the future joy of breaking ground, of laying a cornerstone, of placing over their heads the first new rafters, of fashioning the broad hearth by which they will sit on long, cool evenings.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Currying Favor"—From Grooming a Horse!

Currying favor and grooming a horse do not seem to have much in common: they are however one and almost the same thing; at least the latter is how the former started.

To groom a horse, to clean him, comb him, generally polish him up and thoroughly rub him down was in good old English to "curry" him. In this phrase, the word 'favor' is really a misnomer. It arose from the incidence that the obsolete English (from the old French) word for flattery or cajolery was favel; in England, Favel was also at one time the popular name for chestnut horses, from the French favel signifying that color.

"Currying favor," therefore, is a corruption of "currying Favel" which was first so used in the same sense.

It originated undoubtedly through its application in connection with a favorite horse named Favel, to curry whom well was a royal road to gaining favor with the master.

NOVEL TRACES RISE OF GIANT MUNITIONS FIRM

'Dynasty of Death,' Addition to Library, Contrasts Lives of Two Brothers.

The founding and rise to power of a great munitions company and the family identified with it is told in "Dynasty of Death," by Taylor Caldwell, one of the new fiction books at the Public library.

The novel tells of the development of a great munitions firm, Barbour and Bouchard, from the time that Ernest Barbour, a poor boy of 13, came to America with his family to work in his uncle's fire-arms factory, to the day of his death, when his guns were firing the salutes to the Emperor of Japan.

Ernest's life, his lust for power and fortune, is contrasted with that of his brother, Martin, a gentle, thoughtful boy whose kindness endeared him to all who knew him. The novel gives a good picture of life in America from 1837 to 1914, with the impact of the Civil war, the labor struggles, and the Spanish-American war affecting the lives and fortunes of both the Barbour and Bouchard families.

4 Added to Memorial List.

Four new books were added to the John Baxter Black Memorial collection this week, two of them novels, and two biographies. "East of the Giants" is another name for California, where Judith Bingham of Massachusetts came to live as the wife of Juan Godoy, young Spanish don. George R. Stewart pictures the many types that peopled California of the era between 1937 and the later '50's. Enid Bagnold's novel of the miracle of birth and motherhood, "The Door of Life," makes a single experience a matter of universal significance.

The biographies are Carl Van Doren's life of Benjamin Franklin, which uses some hitherto unpublished information on this great man; and "The Journals of Bronson Alcott," edited by Odell Shepard.

Six other volumes of fiction added this week are "Hell's Hip Pocket," by Coolidge; "Man In the Saddle," Haycox; "Marshall of Sundown," Gregory; "Summer Half," Thirkell; "Bending Sickle," Bullett; and "Flattery's Foal," by Shiriaev.

Nicholas Roosevelt, in "A New Birth of Freedom," defends the fundamental political tradition in America. He predicts that by the co-operative determination of millions of Americans the United States can overcome the present moral lassitude and avoid a dictatorship.

"Britain and The Dictatorships" by R. W. Seton-Watson, is a history of the significant events in Great Britain and Europe from the World war to the present. The author attempts to justify his country's policy of "muddling through."

Other non-fiction this week is: "Farewell The Banner," by Winwar; "Best Plays of 1937-1938," Mantle, ed.; "Sailor on Horseback," Stone; "Life of Christ," Caine; "Europe in 1938," Fodor, ed.; "Nazi Germany: Its Women and Family Life," Kirkpatrick; "Art and the Machine," Cheney; "Decorating Livable Homes," Burris-Meyer; "Elder Peter Bruegel"; "Contemporary Mexican Artists," Velaquez Chavez; "Wrestling for Beginners," Mooney; "The Big Four: Huntington, Stanford, Hopkins and Crocker, and the Building of the Central Pacific," Lewis.

NEWSPAPER WOMEN OPEN 38TH ANNUAL CONVENTION FRIDAY

Newspaper women from Mansfield and this section of the state will leave Friday afternoon for Cleveland where they will attend the 38th annual convention of the Ohio Newspaper Women's convention.

The highlights of the session will be the contest luncheon Saturday noon at the Hollenden hotel when more than $600 will be awarded for the best stories of the year, and the annual banquet Saturday night at the Statler hotel at which Inez Robb, said to be the highest paid woman reporter in the world, will be the speaker.

Mrs. Robb, who until recently was "Nancy Randolph" of the New York News, signed a unique contract two months ago with the New York Mirror and International News Service whereby she is said to receive approximately $500 a week and expenses with the world as her "beat."

The first event on the convention program is a party [illegible] at WTAM with a broadcast at 10:30 p. m., followed by a buffet supper with the Women's Press club of Cleveland as host. The annual business session Saturday morning will be followed by an informal party at which a David Murray dance team will teach members and their guests the Lambeth Walk, newest dance craze.

The final session will be held Sunday morning with a breakfast at the Cleveland hotel. On the program will be Helen Allyn of the Cleveland Press and Jane Williams of the News-Journal, who will tell of their exchange of jobs last spring, the former talking on "I'll Take the Big City" and Mrs. Williams on "I'll Take the Small City."

Those who will attend from Mansfield, besides Mrs. Williams, are Frances Gensley, News-Journal society editor; Mrs. Howard Wenning, a former newspaper woman on The News staff, and Mrs. W. W. Stark, Park avenue west, who will be a guest. R. D. Lindsay, managing editor of the News-Journal, Mrs. Lindsay and Paul A. Williams, will attend the banquet and after-banquet party.

GEM DISCOVERY LAUNCHES RUSH

Chemists Find Topaz, Jasper Opals and Bloodstones.

HONOLULU, T. H. — (AP) — Amateur prospectors are hurrying to the rugged Waianae mountains near here to search for semi-precious stones, following discoveries there by two chemists. These chemists — Alexander Cornelison and Howard Cooper—picked up yellow topaz, red jasper, bloodstones, olivines and opals which have been valued at $1,500.

The chemists made their finds while searching for bauxite, a mineral used in clarifying sugar syrup.

A $2 shirt may contain as little as 10 cents worth of cotton; a $5 bathing suit, 15 cents worth of wool and a package of cigarettes, less than ½ a cent worth of tobacco.

CHAPTER 20

THE BOLANDS had a dog, a long-haired Dachshund, which belong to Abbey. Now and then the dog was permitted in the house but no one paid much attention to him. Judy remembered him that Christmas morning, and asked the stable man if she might take him for a walk.

Ronald, amused, liking dogs, seconded the motion.

They walked through the white woods. Sometimes they were together. More often single file with the dog going ahead, grateful for attention. They said little. Maybe Ronald's hand helped Judy over a fallen log Maybe he laughed as she cleared it of her own volition.

They sat on a stile and talked while the clear blue air grew darker with the swift coming of December night.

Ronald mentioned a case which he must try, one which had been Page One news for weeks. He went into the intricacies of law, and Judy, understanding little of it, listened eagerly, eyes shining. He asked her advice about some draperies he was choosing for the modest apartment into which he was moving. He mentioned a play he had seen, a book he had read

Finally, he broke off to say: "Judy, it rests me to talk to you. You're the best listener I've ever found."

"Is that a compliment?"

"Decidedly! Most women want to tell you how they have shone, where they have been. They don't understand that a man pre-supposes that. He wants an audience."

(Sit in the gallery and applaud, Judy. He'll talk a while longer then!)

But there was one question she wanted to ask, and presently she did. "Ronald, where did your people hail from? How did they get into the mountains?"

He laughed. "So that puzzles you, too? They were Scotch-Irish. Somewhere around 1600, when a good king, James, sat on the English throne, he issued a command that the weavers of his kingdom had to bear heavy taxation unless they lived in merrie England So the Scotch-Irish had to migrate—couldn't live on what was left when James had passed the crown for the income tax.

"My great grandfather—remove him enough times to get the lineage clear—was the younger son of an earl. He had gone into business—been almost ostracized because of it—so he came to America with the others. And they crossed to the mountains. His strain married and, well, we're mountaineers, that's all."

For no accountable reason Judy felt better. She called herself a snob for rejoicing that Ronald had known breeding and prestige somewhere in his lineage. After all, the native Scotch-Irish people were as clean, as fine, as morally sound, as any group that ever had taken ship to the brave new world.

"Let's not go home for a long time," Ronald was saying with the gay independence of a small boy. "I'm hungry Could you eat dinner?"

They found a small tea room in the heart of the white forest, and the proprietor offered to have his wife prepare dinner since tea and toast did not satisfy the two hungry callers.

There was a slice of ham, a golden brown color. There were hot biscuits and honey, home fried potatoes, cottage cheese, a salad of crisp lettuce, tomatoes and cucumbers, and a mince pie for dessert. The dog fed lavishly, too.

In the moonlight they started to retrace their path, but the forest was dark and they had to hunt the main road They were trudging along, humming a snatch of one carol, now another, when a car drew up

Abbey's voice called: "Say, you two wanderers! How about a lift?"

"It would be great!" Ronald answered

"I'd adore it," sang Judy, wondering if it were truth or kindness that prompted Ronald's answer. "Can you take your magnificent pet?"

Already the chauffeur had opened the door, however, so the dog could ride with him.

The count was in the car. He said little. Abbey talked constantly, her voice a provocative, lilting stream of velvet words. In some way she pulled her tones down an octave, made them low. Much later in the evening, when the household was assembled downstairs, yawning, bored, trying to chatter over unimportant events, Count Phillippe sought out Judy.

"You're wholesome. I don't need to pretend. I'm taking the 11:10 to the city for a few days."

"Yes?" Why did he tell her?

"Abbey and I have quarreled. Oh, not seriously. She thinks so, though. I'll stay away until she relents. Then I'll be back."

"If she doesn't relent?"

"One always takes that chance If not—" He shrugged his shoulders.

"But it's almost time for the wedding!" Had the two principals quarreled over Ronald — Ronald who had been so young and happy in the white woods today?

"That's why she'll come to terms! I don't like having my affianced wife conducting secrets with young attorneys. I told her so. And she denied it. After the wedding that is different! You are suggesting, aren't you, Miss Rogers, that I fear there will be no wedding? I fear nothing of the sort!"

"But you can't—I mean you are perfectly disgusting . . . " Judy was floundering in her words when Abbey, icy-eyed, velvet-voiced, came along. She said nothing but her chin went a little higher. Judy felt a pang of sympathy for her, another pang of contempt.

It was two days later that Abbey announced that her dog was missing. Since Abbey had paid such little attention to the animal, Judy was amused at her sudden concern. She had little time to think about it. Marie, the maid, who had been ill, returned and Coralee had been dismissed. She told Judy before leaving that she would return to Danceland.

"I'll get you a job as soon as I get one myself," Judy promised. "I want to meet your family, too." She hated to see the girl leave. In some strange way she bound her to the outside world

Late the next day Abbey made her astounding declaration. She did it in the presence of her father, the chauffeur, the gardener, the assistant gardener, the housekeeper—Judy did not look beyond them. Everyone was here.

"I've had detectives tracing Boris"—Boris was the dog—"and we have found him."

"Oh, I'm glad!" breathed Judy, whole-heartedly.

The interruption was ignored. "He had been taken from home and sold, but we found out through advertising and investigation where he was. I have reason to believe that the party who stole him is in my employ. The dog fancier, who bought him, said a girl brought him. She had his license with her."

There was a low hum of conversation. Abbey ignored it, her brows wide and serene, her voice breaking a little.

"I'm so sorry, but I have every reason to believe it was—it was . . . If that person will speak up, we'll let the matter drop."

There was silence.

Then Abbey turned to Judy: "Miss Rogers, did you sell my dog?"

"I sell your dog?"

If Abbey had asked Judy if she had confiscated the Hope diamond, ordered the sun to turn purple, or decided to walk on her head through Times square, she could not have been more amazed. Then anger asserted itself, tinged with contemptuous amusement. "Of course I didn't sell Boris! It would be contemptible! And I think I deserve an apology."

"You may have one—when we know the truth. You are dismissed."

Court adjourned. The seed of suspicion planted in every mind. If she left, it would be taken as a sign of guilt. But how could she stay with doubt watching her from every pair of eyes?

Mr. Boland interrupted: "Abbey, you can't mean that! I beg your pardon most humbly, Miss Rogers!"

PLANS EXAMS

Civil Service Announces Tests for 3 Federal Positions.

GREATER SUPPLY

More Meat to Be Available in '39, Packers Told.

CHICAGO — (INS) — More meat probably will be available for the American consumer in 1939 than 1938, it was declared at the closing session of the convention of the institute of American meat packers.

The statement was made by Preston Richards, senior agricultural economist of the bureau of agricultural economics, U. S. department of agriculture. He said:

"It appears probable that the total meat production of 1939 will be larger than in 1938, but it probably will continue below the average five years prior to 1934.

"The increase over a year earlier will be practically all in pork since the supply of beef next year is expected to be slightly smaller than a year earlier."

FELT LIKE A KNIFE STICKING IN HIS BACK AT EVERY MOVE

Says famous root, herb and alkalizing medicine Vendol, now being introduced here, quickly relieved him. Took the stiffness out of his muscles by relieving constipation and acting as a mild diuretic to kidneys.

MR. CLIFT MANLEY

There is no mystery about the amazing effectiveness of Vendol the famous medicine which is now being introduced in Mansfield by the Vendol Man at Weinberger's Drug Store Vendol contains nothing that your own physician does not know about However it does contain about three times as much medicinal value as any ordinary remedy with the result that it brings relief, time after time, in cases where many other things have failed

Mr. Cliff Manley well known farmer, who lives on route 1, Millersburg Ohio gives his experience with Vendol as follows

"Hardly a night passed but that the pains in my back kept me awake long after I had retired My muscles were sore and caused a lot of suffering Sometimes it felt like a knife was sticking in my back The pains extended down into my hips and legs and caused such agony that it was impossible to get a good night's sleep Then in the morning I would awaken feeling sore and stiff and the pains would seem to be all over my body

I had been troubled with constipation for a long time, but did not suspicion this was causing so much trouble but I'm honest in saying that I never had anything to relieve me like Vendol has. Vendol also acted as a mild diuretic to my kidneys, then the pains, aches and stiffness just seemed to vanish and now I never have a headache get sound restful sleep every night and awaken ready for my day's work. Vendol proved to be a wonderful thing for me so I want to advise everyone suffering the same way to start taking it at once

The splendid relief Vendol gives is due to its excellent formula of roots and herbs with valuable alkalizers added for extra benefits If you suffer as described above, don't delay trying Vendol. You will surely like it

The Vendol Man is at Weinberger's Drug Store, 32 N. Main St., every day meeting local people and explaining all about this great medicine. Come see him today if possible—there is no charge. Learn how Vendol will help you. Most all leading druggists now sell Vendol.

REVIVES POLICY

France to Send Convicts to Guinea Islands Again.

PARIS —(AP)— The newspaper Paris Midi has said Premier Edouard Daladier's government had decided to revive the practice of shipping French convicts to the dreaded French Guinea Islands.

It reported the practice, banned by Leon Blum when he became premier in June, 1936, would be resumed Nov. 20, when the prison ship La Martiniere will transport prisoners from St. Lazaire in its iron cages to the three notorious islands, including Devil's Island, off South America.

Blum, whose socialist party lead a long fight against the colony, pointed to world condemnation when he took office as supporting his decision to suppress it.

The early fall is a good time for poultrymen to clean and disinfect their poultry laying houses.

G. O. P. Fights 'Little New Deal' In Hot Primary Battle In Pennsylvania

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of articles on interesting campaigns in various states.)

(By Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA—High stakes, with no holds barred, have given Pennsylvania's political battle a rough-and-tumble tempo.

For Republicans, Pennsylvania is a large-scale reclamation project. For four years they have been a minority part in a state whose Republicanism for decades was taken for granted. If they can reclaim it from the "little New Deal" of Governor George H. Earle, the immediate spoils are 27,000 state jobs. And victory might help win the 36 electoral votes—the second largest block in the country—in 1940.

Earle seeks the seat of U. S. Senator James J. Davis. Stocky "Puddler Jim," long a Republican wheelhorse, has no desire to yield. Earle's Democratic ticket mate is Lawyer Charles Alvin Jones, of Pittsburgh, contesting for the governorship with Arthur H. James, superior court judge.

SENATOR JAMES J. DAVIS
Wants to keep his seat.

GOV. GEORGE H. EARLE
Wants to go to Washington.

Labor Leaders Differ.

Senator Davis got the name "Puddler Jim" while working in the steel mills. President Green of AFL indorsed the Davis candidacy, but the state AFL, along with CIO, declared for Earle and Jones. Davis has a New Deal voting record stronger than many conservative Democrats in the senate.

The issue is not only the New Deal, but whether Earle's version of it has been applied honestly Republican cries of graft and purchased legislation have churned up a turmoil.

Democrats say those charges are made for political effect. And they hammer at Judge James for holding on to his court post while campaigning for the governorship.

High on the general staff of the Democratic forces is Senator Joseph Guffey, who appears to have forgiven the Earle faction for defeating in the primary the slate backed by him and CIO Chieftain John L. Lewis.

Political experience is heavily on the side of the Republicans. Davis has been elected senator twice.

Arthur H. James Charles A. Jones

Before that he was secretary of labor for 10 years. Gubernatorial Candidate James was a district attorney and lieutenant governor before election to the bench. He's red-haired, a vigorous campaigner, and was an anthracite miner in his youth.' James won a landslide primary victory over Gifford Pinchot, twice governor.

Earle never was a candidate until he ran for the governorship four years ago. Born and reared in wealth, his diversions were polo and bustard hunting when President Roosevelt started his public career by naming him minister to Austria in 1933.

Earle's running mate Jones never before has been a candidate for an important political office.

CHICKENS KILL OFF RODENTS

Rooster Holds Rat By Tail, Hens Peck It To Death.

EVANSVILLE, Ind.—(AP)—Mrs. Victoria E. Wheeler used to worry about the rats getting her chickens but now the birds are taking care of matters.

She looked out in the chicken yard when she heard a commotion the other day and saw a plucky young Rhode Island red rooster dragging a rat around by the tail, while the other chickens pecked the rodent to death.

ITALY THREADS RAIL NETWORK THROUGH ALPS

Cable Car Lines Total 24, More Under Construction in Record Building.

(By United Press)

ROME — Italy holds the little known world's record for cable railways, with 24 in use and several in construction.

Germany and Austria combined are second on the list with 21—Austria has 13 and Germany 8. France is third with 14. Switzerland and Japan follow with five and two, respectively, with Argentina, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Norway and South Africa trail with one each.

Italy jumped into the lead during the World war when 5,000 miles of "teleferics" were installed on the Austrian front. They proved so successful in warfare that Italy decided to use this new technique in transport for peacetime travel.

The largest number of these cable railways are in the mountainous regions of north Italy. They are mostly used to exploit the tourist possibilities of winter resorts. Skiing fields are reached in a few moments instead of the hours required on the old, laborious mountain railways.

Sestiere, Italy's foremost skiing resort, is served with four "teleferics" which climb Mont'Alpette, Sises, Banchetta and Monte Fraitev. Bolzano in the Dolomites has two. They connect Bolzano with the heights of Colle and Sant Genesio. There are three in the Abruzzi's, one at Trento and another at Claviere.

The longest "teleferic" is from San Remo to the summit of Monte Bignone in the center of the Maritime Alps while the shortest is from Varallo to the Sacro Monte in Piedmont, about 750 feet in length.

At present work is proceeding on a new "teleferic" from Gorizia, near Trieste, to Monte Santo.

Ichnology is the science of footprints, and treats of the impression made in mud or sand by the animals of former ages.

Book of the Week

"SUCH SWEET COMPULSION: THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF GERALDINE FARRAR" (Greystone: $3).

GERALDINE FARRAR has been called the most charming woman in America, and those who know her, even slightly, will be inclined to agree with the charaacterization.

Today this operatic star of a generation just passed (some of her contemporaries are still singing, to be sure) lives in a pleasant house in the pleasant Connecticut village of Ridgefield, and does exactly what she wants. She is not idle, but never hurried. She likes people, dogs, the country, music. In short, she is content.

The career which led to this idyllic existence was not so tranquil, however. In particular there were three episodes which stirred the world, and which make, in themselves, material for a book. The first was Miss Farrar's friendship for the German crown prince when, as a young singer, she was the favorite of Berlin. The second was her unlucky marriage with Lou Tellegen. The third was Antonio Scotti's determination to marry her.

As she herself says, she always fought, but only to get a hearing for herself on the most advantageous terms—never to keep a rival out of a place. She and her mother (to whom she gives major credit for her success) were shrewd bargainers. Miss Farrar got what she needed, and once before the public she took care of herself well.

She makes very little of the crown prince episode—confesses no liaison of the sort she was accused of, though she frankly admits she sometimes used her fictitious position to advance her career. She skims the Tellegen "sequence," too, while allowing herself a little bitterness. Scotti she barely mentions except as a colleague.

The book is quietly written, though a little too elegant in spots. Miss Farrar herself wrote it, in longhand, mostly in the early morning. The unfortunate thing is that some editor or other did not take her manuscript and persuade her to add to it, and to take out the sections attributed to her dead mother, and replace them with her own narrative. Perhaps they should have had her leave out the vague references to psychic phenomena, adroitly handled though they be.

HERO AIRMEN GIVEN MEDALS

Dinner Honors Fliers Who Landed Burning Plane.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Pilot David Hissong's heroic feat in landing his blazing transport plane on an Alabama cotton field and saving 14 lives today had brought him and his two assistants gold medals.

The eastern air liner's crew of Hissong, Co-pilot Clyde Russell and Steward Frank Gibbs was hailed at a dinner honoring them by Joseph V. Connolly, general manager of the Hearst newspapers, who was one of 11 passengers of the ill-fated plane. Pinning medals on the crew, Connolly said:

"Heroism is a vital essential in American life. It is the greatest inspiration to our youth."

COURT'S RULING AGAINST JERSEY BAR ON SPEECH

CIO, Allied Groups Win in Action to Block Hague's 'Deporting' Activities.

(By Associated Press)

NEWARK, N. J.—The CIO and allied organizations won a Federal court order today restraining Mayor Frank Hague and fellow Jersey City officials from "deporting" members, or interfering with their rights to speak in public parks, distribute leaflets and carry placards.

The decision was handed down by Circuit Court Judge William Clark, who as district judge sat at the trial last spring of an injunction suit brought by the committee for industrial organization, the American Civil Liberties union, and several co-plaintiffs. They asked that Hague and his colleagues on the city administration be enjoined from interfering with their organizational activities.

Filing of the suit followed interruption of the CIO's attempt last November to distribute literature and organize workers in Jersey City—a move which Hague callen an "invasion." Police arrested 13 organizers and sympathizers and escorted scores of others from the city.

Favors Appeal.

In his opinion today, which Judge Clark has expressed hope will be appealed, he recommended "a modified form of public censorship"—a requirement that an advance copy of a speech must be furnished to authorities in cases where "the particular persons applying for permits had on previous occasions addressed similar audiences with resulting disturbances."

The 15,000-word decision did not rule on the plaintiff's complaint that the Hague administration intimidated owners of private meeting halls into refusing to rent to them. The judge ruled there was no competent evidence to connect city officials with the inability to obtain indoor meeting places.

Neither did the decision deal with the prayer for relief from interference with picketing, union organization and other rights under the National Labor Relations act. Judge Clark said he already had upheld these rights in an injunction issued in another case, now up on appeal.

Judge Clark's decision did not once mention communism.

This despite the fact that Hague, in his five and a half days on the witness stand, had discoursed at great length about his self-styled "war on Reds and radicals," denounced most CIO leaders as communists, and declared that many of his tactics which were under fire were motivated by his determination to prevent communists from "invading" the city he has governed a quarter of a century.

O. S. R. Chaplaincy Brings Minister Back to Home Town

When Rev. Martin W. Wappner of Kent takes over his duties as chaplain at the Ohio state reformatory here Nov. 1, he will be returning to his native city which he left nearly a quarter of a century ago.

It was in 1914 that Rev. Wappner, who had been graduated from Mansfield high school the year previous, left to attend Wittenberg college in Springfield.

After his graduation from Hamma Divinity school he served his first pastorate in Coshocton for seven years. He then went to Kent where he has been pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church for the past 10 years.

Last Sunday he tendered his resignation to the Synod of Ohio to accept a provisional appointment as chaplain at the reformatory.

Rev. Wappner is the son of the late Philip Wappner who founded a furniture store and mortuary here 65 years ago. The funeral service which still bears his name is now operated by a son, Philip, and a brother of Rev. Wappner.

DRINKS WINE, SHOOTS LOVER

Cleveland Woman Says Now 'I Don't Have to Be Afraid.'

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Jewel Sires, 37, was seated in a cafe with her sweetheart, Joseph Schudy, 42.

Suddenly she drew a revolver and fired two shots at the man. He slumped to the floor dead.

"Honey, now I don't have to be afraid of you any more," she said.

Then she finished her glass of wine, and Schudy's glass as well.

This description of the shooting was given to police today by Alex Toya, the cafe proprietor. The woman, arrested at the cafe, signed a statement admitting she shot Schudy, police said.

PRINCESS BABA, MATE SEPARATE

'No Hard Feelings,' Says Wrestler, Confirming Estrangement.

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Handsome Bob Gregory, the wrestler who married Princess Baba of Sarawak, daughter of the only white rajah in the world, admitted today they had separated and she would return to England, leaving Sunday.

"Yes, we're going to separate—temporarily, we hope," Gregory said. "Princess Baba thinks she can gain more success in motion pictures back in London. There are no hard feelings."

They were married in London, Nov. 22, 1937.

U. S. CHECKING UP ON BULKLEY

Senate Investigators Ordered Into Ohio to Learn About Campaign Donations.

Following a four-hour executive session, Sen. Sheppard said the committee would discuss the Bulkley contributions at its next meeting Nov. 2. A formal statement issued by the committee said:

"The examination of the financial report made to this committee by the Bulkley campaign committee seems to indicate that this campaign committee accepted, in Sen. Bulkley's behalf, contributions from approximately 50 individuals that are now known to be federal officials or employes, in violation of federal law.

"As this committee has not yet had opportunity to obtain Sen. Bulkley's statement, or the statement of the alleged contributors whose contributions are within the provisions of the federal law, the committee is not prepared to take any action until further investigation is made."

FOREST FIRES HIT W. VIRGINIA

65 Blazes Reported As State Appeals For Safeguards.

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(AP)—The conservation commission, declaring a state of emergency because of forest fires, appealed today "to all hunters, farmers and citizens alike to forego the pleasure of hunting and using the woods until it rains."

"Unless winds decrease and humidity increases thousands of acres of valuable forest lands and hunting areas will become involved."

MERCURY DOWN, BUT IT'LL RISE

Friday Due to Be Warmer After Sudden Drop In Night.

A 31-degree drop in the temperature last night brought topcoats out again today, but the weatherman said it will be warmer Friday.

Ideal autumn weather pushed the mercury up to 70 degrees yesterday afternoon, but it skidded to 39 after light rain fell in the city during the early evening. It was 48 at noon today.

The weather will be fair and slightly colder tonight and continued fair and warmer tomorrow, the forecast said.

2 LOSE APPEALS

Cleveland Labor Leaders Turned Down in Extortion Plea.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Holding that no debatable constitutional question was involved, the supreme court today denied the appeal of John McGee and Donald A. Campbell, former Cleveland labor union agents, who were convicted of extorting $1,200 from Vernon Stouffer, operator of a Cleveland restaurant chain.

McGee and Campbell are serving one to ten years in Ohio penitentiary on the extortion charge.

LINER DAMAGED

LONDON — (UP) — Lloyd's shipping agency correspondent at Kobe, Japan, reported today that the American Dollar liner President Coolidge was slightly damaged there today when it struck a wharf. DETECTIVE WORK ENDS, SHELBY AND MANSFIELD SIGNS RETURNED

The Mansfield corporation sign which made its appearance in Shelby after last Saturday's football game was back in place today—but not until after considerable detective work by both Mansfield and Shelby police.

Shelby Police Chief Leroy Coffey delivered the Mansfield sign which he had recovered, to police here and asked their assistance in recovering two Shelby markers.

They were located in the possession of two youths who were given the alternative of turning them over or going to jail. They quickly agreed to pay for the posts.

Lieut. Bruce Friday and Patrolman C. W. Kyler, however, had to do some extensive sleuthing to locate where the Mansfield corporation marker belonged.

After scouring all highways leading into the city from the north, the officers turned their attention to the west side, finally finding a spot an Marion avenue where they thought there should have been a sign.

Poking around in the weeds Friday they found the signless post which had been broken off even with the ground.

Today, D. D. Orwiler, superintendent of streets, had replaced the marker on a new post.

Co-Eds At Ashland Will Arrange Own 'Dates,' Pay Bills

ASHLAND — Masculine members of Ashland college student body are anticipating with keen relish the arrival of next week which the co-eds have designated as "Gobblers Week."

There is much appeal to the masculine vanity in preparations for the week, as the co-eds will take over the entire responsibility of asking for dates and providing entertainment.

Best of all, the girls will pay for the entertainment.

There is one catch to the program—a rule which states pointedly that no co-ed may have more than one date with any one campus man. This, it is feared, may go a little hard with the girls who "go steady."

Some of the lads may be in for a dose of their own medicine, if the statement of one co-ed is to be taken seriously.

"There's one man I'm going to get even with," she declared vehemently today. "He just comes up to my house and sits all evening. All right, I'm going to call him up for a date and go up to his house and just sit all evening."

She said she had just gotten her car in gear after leaving a home a few doors away when the child, stepped backwards from the curb.

KIDNEYS

Quick Relief! Important to Physic Kidneys at Your Bowels

If kidneys don't filter excess circulating acids from your blood every day—torturing backache often results as well as leg pains, bladder irritation, scanty burning passages and frequent getting up nights.

Common sense will tell you one RIGHT way to help flush acids from kidneys is with a LIQUID and here is a REAL tested and proven highly efficient product—just take a little daily dose of Kruschen Salts in warm water.

A 4 oz. jar of Kruschen (costs but a few cents) makes 5 gallons of a superbly healthful mineral water similar to the world-famous waters of European Spas where wealthy people have gone for years for relief from kidney symptoms. Don't fail to get a jar of Kruschen today. If it doesn't help you—wonderfully—money back. At Central Drug Store and druggists everywhere.

DAMAGE CASE GOES TO JURY

Decision in $25,000 Suit Against City Expected This Afternoon.

With arguments of counsel completed this morning in a $25,000 personal damage suit against the city of Mansfield, the case was presented to a jury shortly before 11 a. m. A decision was expected this afternoon.

The jury of eight men and four women recessed at 11:30 and was to re-convene at 1 p. m.

Three small children of the late Mrs. Julia Willet, Cincinnati, who was killed in an automobile accident more than two years ago on Lexington avenue, sat in the courtroom this morning while Atty. William F. Black, co-counsel for the children's father, asked the jury "to determine how much the mother's life was worth."

William Willet, jr., father of the two girls and a boy, brought the action seeking damages for the death of Mrs. Willet. He contended that a rut at the edge of the street caused the car in which she was riding to turn over, fatally injuring her.

Presenting its defense through City Solicitor M. D. Ward, jr., and Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist, the city contended that Willet lost control of the car outside the city limits although the accident occurred in the city.

WARN NATION FACING CRISIS

G. O. P. Speakers Assert It's Not Party Fight, But Fight to Save Constitution.

the constitution and our democratic form of government, and there are a lot of good Democrats who feel as the Republicans do about that."

"Why, the New Dealers are actually spending our money to defeat us," she asserted. "In Hamilton," she said, "there are 43 men on a WPA project counting the automobiles that go through town. How do you like that for finding a way to spend money?"

Repeating Mrs. Wetzel's warning of the nation's crisis, Crabbe asserted that "most of the Democratic candidates have no solution to our national economic and social problems except a continuation of the New Deal which has not solved them."

"The Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats have no quarrel with the New Dealers for the dollars that are being spent for necessary relief, but we do oppose the squandering of billions of the taxpayers money needlessly," Crabbe said.

He cited the farm measures of the past five years which, he said, "have paid farmers money for destroying a supposed surplus which the New Dealers promised would be distributed through foreign trade."

Despite the spending of millions to remedy the farm problems, Ohio farmers are selling their corn for 30 cents a bushel this fall and imports of farm products have increased by leaps and bounds, he asserted.

Urging the election of Robert A. Taft, the Republican candidate for U. S. senator, Crabbe said "Ohio has only one senator in Washington (Vic Donahey) and his vote is killed by Senator Bulkley's, so we actually have no representation."

"Mr. Bulkley (the Democratic candidate for re-election) says he's with the New Deal and that's his only platform," Crabbe declared. "Mr. Taft would represent the people as Vic Donahey does," he added.

Roy W. Vaughn, president of the Mansfield Public Parks association, spoke in behalf of the establishing of a public parks commission in the city. The issue will appear on the ballot in November.

Earl A. McFarland, state central committeeman from the 17th district, presided at the session.

Plan for Final Rally.

Republican central committeemen and precinct workers in Mansfield will formulate plans for a final city-wide drive at a meeting at 7:30 p. m. today at party headquarters, and at the same time party workers will carry their campaign into two communities in the northern part of the county.

Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch will have charge of the Mansfield session, while Atty. Raymond J. Brown, Mansfield, will speak at the Union high school in Weller township and Atty. Theodore Lutz of Shelby will talk at a rally in the American Legion hall in Shiloh.

Samuel Forney, representing the Republican state headquarters at Columbus, will be the principal speaker at a rally at the Shelby high school at 7:30 p. m. Friday. Another rally will be held Saturday night in Plymouth when county and district candidates will speak. The Plymouth meeting will be conducted jointly by Republican leaders from Richland and Huron counties. Candidates from both counties are schedule to talk.

ings which will be held at Hedges school at 7:30 p. m. today.

Principal speakers at the meeting will be Atty. J. Howard Gongwer and Assistant Richland County Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz. Former city councilman Philip Smith is to be in charge of the meeting.

Saturday night Democrats will hold two district rallies, one at the Democratic headquarters on West Fourth street and the other at the high school in Bellville.

The principal speakers at the Mansfield rally will be William J. Kennedy, candidate for re-election as secretary of state and Congressman-at-large Stephen M. Young.

Congressman Young, an avowed opponent of the Townsend plan, will headline the program at the Bellville meeting which is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. in the school auditorium.

Other speakers will be County Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott and Atty. George Biddle.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

MANSFIELD TIRE ENTERS RETAIL FIELD, OPENS SERVICE STORE

BART HALEY

The Mansfield Tire and Rubber company today entered the retail tire sales field with the opening of a sales and service headquarters on Park avenue west opposite the Ohio theater.

The new establishment, which will be known as the Mansfield Tire Service store, will be under the management of Bart Haley. The station has been enlarged and completely modernized.

Mansfield tires have been distributed in the past through independent dealers, and in announcing the opening of the store here, Haley said, "we want to gain the same acceptance in Mansfield that Mansfield tires enjoy throughout the nation."

A complete line of Mansfield tires and tubes will be handled and modern facilities for installing and repairing tires will be available. The equipment will include a new static and dynamic wheel balancer which assures the maximum service from tires.

In addition to tires and tubes, the station will handle Gulf oil products, Willard storage batteries, Motorola auto radios, Delco home radios, Harrison car heaters and other nationally known automobile equipment.

Globe "Rock-a-car" equipment has been installed to give car lubrication under actual driving conditions. Auto washing and brake adjusting also will be a part of the service.

'PEACE BY FEAR' SCORED IN TALK

Roosevelt Says U. S. Won't Disarm as Other Nations 'Arm to Teeth.'

the United States to join hands with Great Britain in establishing world peace, and again defended his nation's course in the recent crisis.

President Roosevelt deplored armaments competition, but asserted that until foreign nations give something more than verbal assurances that they desire disarmament—until disarmament discussions are actually started, the United States must arm "to meet with success any application of force against us."

"It is becoming increasingly clear," he said, "that peace by fear has no higher or more enduring quality than peace by the sword."

"There can be no peace if the reign of law is to be replaced by a recurrent sanctification of sheer force.

"There can be no peace if national policy adopts as a deliberate instrument the threat of war.

"There can be no peace if national policy adopts as a deliberate instrument the dispersion all over the world of millions of helpless and persecutted wanderers with no place to lay their head.

"There can be no peace if humble men and women are not free to think their own thoughts, to express their own feelings, to worship God.

"There can be no peace if economic resources that ought to be devoted to social and economic reconstruction are to be diverted to an intensified competition in armaments which will merely heighten the suspicions and fears and threaten the economic prosperity of each and every nation."

The United States, the president said, "does not seek to impose on any other people either our way of life or our internal form of government.

"But we are determined to maintain and protect that way of life and that form of government for ourselves.

"And we are determined to use every endeavor in order that the western hemisphere may work out its own interrelated salvation in the light of its own interrelated experience."

In a message which he delivered personally Former President Hoover took the attitude that in the interest of future democracy the United States must remain aloof from European conflict, even from a war between the Democratic and totalitarian states.

Such an attitude, he was convinced, "will serve the world best and it will serve liberty best."

Hoover said that the world's troubles were primarily economic and that relief of economic pressure would not only bring peace but also "relax" despotism in Europe.

Crisis Closes Schools At Dayton, 34,000 Pupils Idle

BUILDINGS TO REMAIN EMPTY FOR 6 WEEKS

Fund Shortage Causes Board to Act; Assembly Session Demands Renewed.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS—State Education Director E. N. Dietrich said today there was a possibility that Gov. Martin L. Davey would call a special session of the legislature to consider the critical school financing situation. Dietrich revealed that he had conferred recently with the governor on the schools problem.

(By Associated Press)

DAYTON—Dayton's 34,000 public school pupils faced a long holiday today, one which has been threatened from time to time for the past seven years.

They faced, with the 1,300 teachers and school employes, at least six weeks of no studies and no athletics, no books and no football, by order of the city board of education, which decided it could no longer "encumber the future" to keep the schools open in the face of a $61,936 deficit.

The board, in an extraordinary session late yesterday, voted unanimously, with one member absent, to close the schools after Friday's sessions. The order, which prompted the Dayton Aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles to demand a special session of the legislature, affected seven high schools, five junior highs, 44 elementary schools and 17 kindergartens.

State Can't Help.

Advised of the order, E. N. Dietrich, state director of education, declared in Columbus there was nothing the state could do to prevent the closing. He expressed hope that the Dayton schools could reopen after the regular distribution of state school foundation funds but said neither an advance nor an increase in Dayton's share could be granted.

City School Superintendent Emerson Landis announced that classes might reopen Dec. 3 if the regular quarterly share of $240,000 was forthcoming from the foundation funds. This, he said, however, would guarantee operation only to Jan. 1.

A two-mill tax levy, designed to produce $500,000 a year for five years, is on the ballot for the Nov. 8 election, but even if passed the revenues will not be available until next year.

County Auditor Joseph A. Lutz advised that $201,000 in real estate tax funds would be available for schools some time next month, but the board said the foundation share still would be needed if the schools were to reopen Dec. 3.

The board's 1938 fiscal year budget totalled more than $4,600,000, of which $3,711,000 came from local funds and the rest from the foundation program.

The Dayton crisis was the first in Ohio's larger cities since the Springfield schools were closed indefinitely in Nov., 1936, after defeat of a proposed three-mill levy. Ten days later the schools were reopened temporarily pending adoption of the levy in a special election.

Half Million Get Jobs Back, U. S. Reports

Up and Down THE STREET

When the January graduating class at Senior high school decided to sponsor a skating party which will be held this evening at the Coliseum, the students also dug up a novel method to stir up interest in the event. Each noon this week a boy and girl from the class skated up and down the first floor hall with banners reminding pupils of the party.

* * *

It was just like a scene from a slap-stick movie comedy . . . The dressed-up woman walked under the scaffolding, the bucket of paint teetered on the edge, a wind came along—and splash! Down came the bucker of paint, spraying the lady on its descent. It happened yesterday noon on North Main street where painters were working on a sign at a jewelry store. The pedestrian's hat, coat, dress and shoes were "decorated." It also splashed on autos parked on the street and fixed the sidewalk up with a new paint job.

* * *

A bit of novelty has been injected into the political campaign at the courthouse. The office of one of the leading Democrats displayed a small mechanical donkey, emblem of the party, which wagged its ears and swung its tail in a circle. On the ears were campaign buttons for Charles Sawyer for governor and William A. Ashbrook for congressman. Republican employes in the building have "theater tickets" from Thomas J. Herbert, the G. O. P. candidate for attorney general, admitting them to "good government after Nov. 8."

* * *

C. C. Crabbe, former attorney general of Ohio and a student of political history, reminded Republicans here last night that the first move to elect Abraham Lincoln as president was started here just 80 years ago on Nov. 5. "Following one of the famous Lincoln-Douglas debates, a group of Republicans met in Mansfield and passed the first resolution supporting Lincoln for the presidency, and that movement swept him into office two years later," Crabbe related.

CLEVELAND GIRL, 21, CLAWED BY BEAR FOR 20 MINUTES, TO LIVE

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — Slender little Julia Zemnick, 21, will survive a vicious attack by a Polar bear in a Brookside zoo cage, doctors said today, but it may be necessary to remove her left eye.

Pronounced in critical condition from loss of blood and multiple injuries, the attractive federal art project worker rallied after a blood transfusion in which Clyde Henderson, 33, high school teacher and friend of the aspiring artist, was the donor.

Perched on a ledge overlooking the cage, Miss Zemnick yesterday was sketching the 600-pound beast, called "Silver," when she tumbled or was pulled into the cage by the female bear. For nearly 20 minutes "Silver" clawed and mauled the girl.

Two men, art project associates, tried vainly to stone the animal before summoning help.

One eye gouged, her scalp virtually torn to shreds and wounded about the face and neck, the rescued by Curley Wilson, zoo semi-conscious Miss Zemnick was superintendent, and two aides. Wilson drove the infuriated "Silver" from the prostrate girl with a pole. His assistants looped a rope over the brunet's ankle and pulled her to a cage door.

Keeper Edward Hagen, who lifted the girl in his arms, said she whispered: "Tell everyone I want to live."

Wilson said he did not plan to kill the six-year-old bear, which was purchased from a New York animal dealer. He remarked that but one person in a thousand "could go into a polar bear's cage without meeting instant death."

OUTLAY IN PAY REMAINS AHEAD OF EMPLOYMENT

Wage Disbursements Increase Faster Than Jobs During Month, Perkins Says.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Nearly half-a-million workers got jobs in the nation's industries during September, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins announced today, adding another cheery note to a series of government reports indicating a broad upswing in business.

The 500,000 new jobs, the secretary emphasized, were confined to non-agricultural industry. Many more thousands of jobs for casual workers and others were created by seasonable harvesting and at least 120,000 cannery employes were returned to the payroll.

Outlay in wages generally, Miss Perkins found, increased faster than jobs.

With 440,000 added to industrial employment alone, the secretary reported, more than 640,000 men and women have been re-employed throughout the country in the period from June to September. This figure likewise excludes workers in farm and related pursuits.

Production Increases.

In addition to the brightening picture in employment, another "good business" sign was the federal reserve board's report that the volume of industrial production had increased further in September. The board's seasonally adjusted index advanced to 90 per cent of the 1923-25 average and compared with 88 per cent in August.

The reserve board was particularly optimistic for further advances before the end of the year. The index, it was said, should reach 95 per cent to make an average for the year of 94 per cent against 110 per cent last year.

Reserve board experts found steadily improving production in the durable goods industries where, they pointed out, the greatest gains in employment are expected in the future. A word of warning, however, came from Secretary of Commerce Daniel Roper who said that steel and other industries should avoid higher wages. He asserted:

"Prices must be maintained within reach of willing buyers."

In Miss Perkins' employment report, it was shown that most of the September gains in jobs came in manufacturing although retail and wholesale stores, mines, certain lines of other industry and even railroads, now battling for a 15 per cent wage cut, took on more employes.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Il Duce Takes Advantage of Many Italians Who Are United States Residents

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Several times lately these dispatches have been accused of anti-Italian feeling.

Well, the Italian nation, under Mussolini, has fostered anti-American feeling for a long time, and a review written in Rome recently reported that it was safe to say that not one word favorable to the United States had appeared in print in Italy in two years.

Mussolini's press, which speaks only with the approval of the government and thus obviously expresses sentiments to which the government desires to give voice, repeatedly has called this country a nation of gangsters, a charge which plainly includes all those Americans, loyal to this country, who were born in Italy or born here of parents who came from Italy.

If an American publication were to call these Americans "gangsters" they would be deeply offended and with good reason. But when Mussolini's press calls them gangsters there is no audible outcry. This lack of resentful expression may be due to the lack of means of expression independent of the extended influence of Fascist Rome. Only a comparatively few Americans of Italian birth or blood actively sympathize with Mussolini and Fascism, and Mussolini presently will discover that he has made a clumsy mistake in addressing insults to the nation for which they have patriotism.

If the Italian press thought to curry favor with this element of Americans by calling them "gangsters" it made a serious psychological error.

Some loyal Americans, including Americans who never saw Italy, have found it difficut to admit to themselves that the Italy of Mussolini and Fascism is a foe of democracy. The United States long ago withdrew from the export trade in democracy and does not now attempt to push its line of government in other countries. There are no Americans in Italy guilty of effrontery comparable to that of the Duce's unofficial governor-general of the unofficial Italian colony of New York, who presumes to warn loyal Americans of Italian birth or descent to refrain from certain expressions.

It seems not to be realized that the so-called Italo-American element in this country has a great power to moderate the attitude of Italy toward this country. If these Americans can be of service to him they also be of equal service against Mussolini, remembering, of course, that Italy constantly tries to organize their influence in Italy's favor.

It is worth remembering that it is impossible these days to ascertain just what is the state of relations between Mussolini's Italy and other nations, including, of course, this one. Italy has not yet declared war on Abyssinia, for example, but has made war on that country, nevertheless; invaded and bombed it, captured its capital and absorbed it. Italy has not declared war on the legal government of Spain, nor has Japan declared war on China, nor Germany on Austria or Czechoslovakia.

Thus Americans of Italian birth or blood who permit themselves from force of sentiment to condone or defend the course of the Italy of today and are instinctively hurt by criticism of Italy, are permitting Mussolini to make use of them.

All this is painful, but the sincerity of Mussoloni's feeling for these Americans may be judged from the fact that he himself detests and severely punishes people whom he even suspects of harboring the slightest affection for any other country.

In Italy, under Mussolini, one cannot be an Austro-Italian or a Jugo-Italian. He choked off the native languages of captured minorities, compelled them to Italianize their names, erased the foreign names from the headstones in their graveyards and even went to the absurdly ruthless extreme of forbidding his captured Austrians to yodel.

He obviously has only contempt for persons who call themselves Italo-Americans, just as Hitler can only despise those who permit themselves to be called German-Americans, although both dictators, being without conscience, naturally make all possible use of Italo-American or German-American sentiment.

Mussolini and Hitler both are imposing on the sentiments of many Americans of foreign birth or blood and playing them for suckers.

In Italy and Germany no man is allowed two guesses as to whether he is all Italian or 100 per cent German.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Lucille Ball was in a sorry state.

Sinus trouble. Black-and-blue marks on her legs. Hangover from a cold. Hangover from "Trailer Romance." Hangover from being stung, repeatedly, by the "B's."

The last-named complaint was worst. After all, sinus trouble is fairly temporary. When Lee Bowman finished the water-squirting scenes, which sent a good deal of high-pressure moisture directly up her nostrils, the sinuses might begin to clear. When Lee Bowman finished the rough-house stuff for the picture, the leg bruises would begin to disappear. But the B's—no, Lucille didn't see much hope.

"I'm kept so busy in the B's that I don't have time to—to improve myself," she said, sitting patiently while a hairdresser worked on the rich, brownish red curls that used to be platinum blond.

That called for elaboration.

* * *

ELABORATION: "Oh, I'm lucky enough, I guess. Only I don't know much about acting yet, and I haven't had much real chance to learn. We work too fast."

Lucille's been working steady the past ten months.

"You see," she said, "I got out of high school—Jamestown, N. Y.—and I had to go to work. My father died, and I didn't have a chance for college, finishing school, or anything. Didn't care about a finishing school, anyway. I went to dramatic school, looked for theatrical work. Got in as a showgirl. You don't need to act for that, just be tall enough and wear clothes right. I didn't learn anything."

She became a model in New York. Fashions and advertising. Sam Goldwyn brought her to Hollywood for "Roman Scandals." She'd been selected as a cigaret ad girl, when Sam was looking for well advertised faces. She followed this with bits at Columbia and went to RKO as one of the twelve models in "Roberta."

"So you see," Lucille finished, a shade despondently, "I've never had a chance to learn anything, really, about acting."

After several offers she got no closer to Broadway than the out-of-town tryouts. She was always being called back to Hollywood. To change her luck, she tossed out the platinum blond dye, and let her hair go dark. It changed her personality, but for her first test after that the studio wanted it blond again.

THE part she wanted most—in the movie "Stage Door"—one the director, Gregory LaCava, couldn't see her in. She got it, finally, by helping Andrea Leeds with her test. She didn't know then that she too was being tested.

"I'd be happier if I could do parts like that—characters in big pictures instead of leading ladies in lesser ones. I'm not the leading lady type—my voice is too high. I could use some diction lessons, and I could take on some polish."

Listening to all this, I had to fight against groaning. That girl sitting there, her good hearty individuality more impressive even than her new "glamour girl" personality, wanted to improve her "diction!" She wanted to lower her voice! She wanted some "polish" and I guess she wanted a little broad-A accent too!

All this she wanted—when just as she is she's the nearest thing we have to what Jean Harlow was at her best!

Up until the recent union with Germany, Vienna (Austria) was a center of culture and education, boasting a fine university, museum and theater.

Vienna is probably one of the most musical centers in the world, and it is associated with names of great and famous composers. The city is also a center of industry and business development, the speaker told the club members.

Hats, Curls Must Be Suited These Days

Whether upswept hair styles brought on a wave of tiny toy hats or vice versa remains a mystery, but tiny hats are the fashionable thing. The newest tippy-tippy hats are trouble-shooters. They balance so lightly on your curls that you won't find a hair out of place. In the photos above, Francine Bordeaux wears a little hat perched over her right eye. It is a tiny felt tricorne with a wicked bit of ostrich feather for accent. Una Merkel steps out in the smartest of country tweeds, and her miniature hat matches its bold check exactly. Arleen Whelan chooses a French felt hat.

Youth Pans Chivalry Of Today

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Not long ago, I read a letter in your column in which a man said he had far too much chivalry to take a girl out on the fifty-fifty plan. Please let me say that I've spent a good deal of time in the chivalry belt, and I've never seen it working overtime.

The old, physically handicapped, young children, widows and orphans who could profit by a little chivalry are neglected, while young and pretty women and prosperous old ones probably get more of this treackle than they really want. In the chivalry belt, I've actually seen men give their seats to women in the street car, but they underpay them in factories and offices. And you never see them give their seats to a poor, old woman in a street car. They offer the seats with a lively sense of dates to come. Don't you thing so? REALIST.

No, I can't say that I agree with you about offering a seat to a lady in the hope of getting a date in return. Would she be a lady who swapped a date for a seat? I think not. And, my dear sir, you don't have to go to the chivalry belt to find that women do not receive equal pay for equal work.

As there is this discrimination, what's the harm in offering a lady a seat?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We're both very young; I'm 20, my husband 21. We have two baby sons. The trouble is my husband does piece work. Some weeks he makes $20 and others $40. The weeks he makes $40 he'll dress up, go out and not come home until daylight. He never invites me to go with him, and he spends his money on his boy friends and not on me.

If I suggest anything thrifty, he becomes enraged and the other day tore my best dress to pieces. I realize he's young but what can you do with a man like that. The other night we went to a party at a friend's house, and took both the babies with us. The men got into a poker game and I wanted to go home at 2:30, but my husband wouldn't come with me. So my girl friend took me home, and I had to carry both babies upstairs. He returned at 4 o'clock.

I feel sometimes as if I'd go crazy.

A BEWILDERED WIFE.

When boys, who should be out playing baseball on the sand lot are married men and fathers, they're apt to be irresponsible, which, of course, doesn't help the situation, or keep the wife from feeling she's going crazy. Sometimes they grow up and realize they're not giving the "little woman" a square deal, by refusing to take her out and instead spending their money to play "heap big chief" with their boy friends.

To advise a girl to have patience in such a plight is pretty cold comfort. In the meantime, perhaps the married little boy may grow up.

Notes From a Model's Diary

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Our afternoon teas have been ever so successful and we are all glad. We haven't had to put on any show such as we used to do when we had a big formal evening opening. Each day we just select things we like and the girls stroll around while our customers gather in our big second floor salon and sip tea or whatever they fancy.

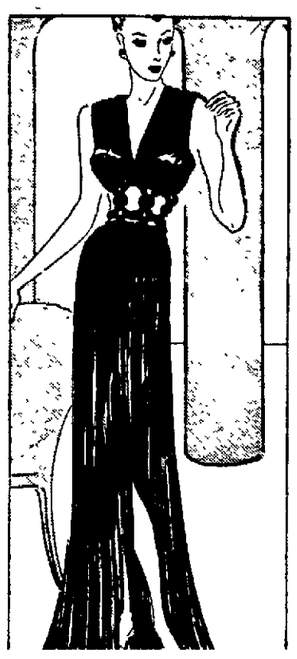
Howard installed a full-sized bar in an ante room, which is a blessing. When not in use it folds back into the wall and is disguised by decorative paneling. Well, whatever the customers drink, it doesn't matter, so long as I don't have to put on a big fashion show. The clothes are so lovely that just bringing them out is a delight.

One of the things that intrigued us in Paris was the jeweled muzzle for silver fox heads. We had some beauties made up and they have gone over with a bang.

Toques Are Success.

Then the lovely toques that are fashioned entirely of silver fox are having a huge success. Usually these tiny fur hats are coupled with huge fur muffs to match, and I can tell you that the whole business is considerably expensive. But just the same, these silver fox and mink sets have been selling like mad. We can't keep them in stock, so we just make up to order.

The purples and the allied shades are going over well, but most of our customers seem to like black with touches of color or glitter. Our more dress with sprays of flowers in iridescent sequins has been a big seller, so much so that we have made it up for afternoon in street length and for dinner with a long, slinky skirt. For evening we have a tiny sequin cap to match; it has feather frond trimming.



Black Silk Fringe Gown.

Black satin is tremendously important this season, especially for gala gowns. Here it is used with black silk fringe, creating a very opulent model. The openwork section through the midriff dips down in back. It shows the skin through it. It is daring but smart. The entire skirt is of the fringe, covering a slim, short satin foundation that is slit at the sides.

Apple, Pear Preserves Suggested

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

With the tang of autumn in the air, and luscious apples and pears inviting us on every side, few housewives can resist a session with the preserving kettle. Every household, of course, has its own favorite recipes, but it's always a treat to bring out an unexpected jar of something different. Here, then, are some tempting new suggestions in the way of preserving the favorite homely fruits.

We have included glycerine as an ingredient because it prevents crystalization and brings out the flavor and, at the same time, retards fermentation—all of which which are important points in home preserving lore.

Spiced apples need firm, select fruit that will not mush in processing. Leave whole or peel, core and cut in eighths. Pack in clean jars. Pour in syrup, made of equal parts of water and glycerine, which has been brought to a boil. Have syrup within one and one-half inches from top of jar. Add red vegetable coloring to give desired shade. Flavor with cinnamon to taste. Screw on jar top very tight. Cook in 250 degrees F. oven for 75 minutes or in water bath 25 minutes.

Apple Spread.

Apple spread de luxe needs six tart apples, one-quarter pound nut meats, one-half pound each seedless raisins and brown sugar, and one-quarter cup glycerine. Pare and slice apples, wash raisins, chop together with nut meats, not too fine. Mix ingredients, place on fire with just enough water to keep from burning and cook slowly for 45 minutes. Add sugar and glycerine and continue cooking until thick. Pour into sterilized jars and seal. It's the nicest apple butter spread we've ever tasted!

Sweet pickled pears call for two quarts pears, one-quarter pound nut meats, one-half pound brown sugar, one-half cup glycerine, one cup vinegar, one ounce stick cinnamon, whole cloves. Boil sugar, vinegar, glycerine and cinnamon 20 minutes. Dip pears quickly in hot water. Stick each pear with four cloves. Put into syrup and cook until soft, using half pears at a time. Pack in tight jars.

Pears chinois is another splendid pear recipe. It requires four pounds pears, two pounds sugar, one-quarter pound preserved ginger, two lemons and two tablespoons glycerine. Wash pears, quarter and remove core and stem. Cut in small pieces. Cut ginger in small pieces and add with lemon juice and sugar to the pears. Slice lemon rinds into very thin slices. Mix all together with sugar and let stand overnight. Then cook slowly until thick and clear. Add glycerine during last ten minutes of cooking. Pour into glass jars or crock and seal.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"DO YOU mean," Miss Whitlock asked with a bewilderment which patently had been increased by my comment, "that you think Mr. Veritzen did know about her coming here and spying upon his daughter-in-law?"

"I am completely at sea," I answered with my head in my hands "If he does know, then Avis Arlen has far greater histrionic powers than I dreamed she possessed. But that opens up possibilties which make me shudder. Do you remember what she said was the object of her being here?"

Miss Whitlock reflected a bit, taxing her memory, then answered slowly.

"She said that she wanted to get something on that 'Jezebel,' meaning Mary."

Frighten Her.

"Yes, those were her very words," I said slowly. "And if she alone were back of such a desire, it would be bad enough, but if, as she tried to make us believe at first, Philip Veritzen really established her in the hotel, it frightened me terribly, for it means—it means—"

But suppose, I asked myself, she really were an agent of Philip Veritzen, planted in the hotel to spy upon Mary? I knew his shrewdness, as well as his suspicion of everybody, and I knew that he did not underestimate my own intelligence and resourcefulness.

It was entirely possible, I told myself, for him to have foreseen the emergency—to his mind—which had just occurred. He knew that I was watching very carefully over Mary—the incident of the night chains which I had demanded for the locks would have told him that—and he might have foreseen that sooner or later I would discover Avis Arlen's presence on our floor, which was supposed to have no occupied suites besides ours and Miss Whitlock's—an order which he had given for the ostensible reason of guarding the safety and the privacy of his young daughter-in-law, who was scheduled to be a star in his theatrical firmament.

As clearly as if my eyes had seen him, I could visualize the interview between Philip Vertizen and the girl whose conscience he knew was so elastic that it was almost falling apart. I could see him coaching her, as only he, greatest dramatic figure of his generation, could coach.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Oct. 28.

Conflicting planetary influences are noted among the major operations, some favorable and others offering disagreeable and detrimental situations. The latter call for hesitation, discrimination and careful maneuvering, especially in dealing with strangers or strange propositions, where funds are at stake. Shun strife and impulsive moves.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of conflicting experiences. Employers, superiors, close friends and social contacts should prove helpful and trustworthy, while strangers may be detrimental and cause loss of funds or provoke quarrels.

A child born on this day may be constructive, practical and enterprising, but, at the same time, tempestuous, impulsive and reckless, possibly because of a highly stimulated state of mind or excitable nervous mechanism. Yet, it should be gracious, friendly and in demand socially.

Don't Nurse Fixed Idea About Style

By MME. QUI VIVE

Teachers of physical education and women who run beauty shops will tell you that the hardest customers to deal with are those with fixed ideas. Young women are always looking for new make-up, new styles in dress, new everything. They haven't fixed ideas. But after forty many a woman gets pig-headed about change. She is six laps behind the fashion pageant. And it isn't altogether how she looks, it is how she feels.

One of the stubborn cult is the girl who believes she can't wear shoes without high heels. Yet she tags around in bed room slippers in the early morning hours and doesn't suffer pangs or pains. She loves her stilts. Let her come down a peg or two, put on sensible shoes—you can get them sensible and chic too—and her disposition will improve. So will her figure.

There are women who still wear their tresses pulled over their noses "because their foreheads are high." That's a laugh. A high forehead makes a woman appear distinguished. A brisk brush back of forelocks and she shakes off her moss, stands among the pretties of this particular moment.

The African violet (Saintpaulia) is grown by greenhouse men in rather heavy shade and will grow a long time in a 5 or 6-inch pot. But remember to keep the soil moist.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

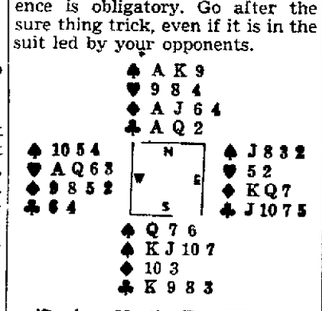
"The Authority on Authorities"

SEARCH ALL SUITS

IF EIGHT IMMEDIATE tricks are in sight and you need one more for your no trump rubber game, examine each suit carefully. If one suit affords a positive means to get the extra trick and the others have any doubt attached, your preference is obligatory. Go after the sure thing trick, even if it is in the suit led by your opponents.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable)

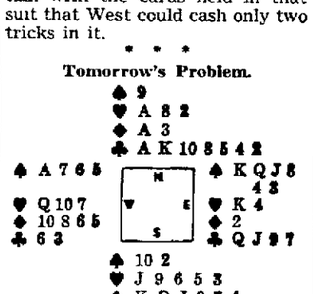
North bid 1-Diamond on this rubber bridge deal, South 1-No Trump, North 2-No Trump and South 3-No Trump.

Declarer could see eight tricks in sight, three in spades, one in hearts, one in diamonds and three in clubs. He cashed the clubs A, K and Q and was disappointed not to develop his needed ninth trick in that suit. He then tried diamonds by finessing his 10, which lost to East's Q. East cashed the club J and returned a heart to West, who won with the Q and played the A. The spade return was won with the Q and declarer was able to claim the remainder of the tricks.

Instead of floundering around and trying out several different suits, it would have been a simple matter for South to gain the trick he needed in hearts, as it was certain with the cards held in that suit that West could cash only two tricks in it.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable)

How should South play for 5-Diamonds, the spade A having been cashed and the club 6 led?

My Neighbor Says:

One-half of a cup of grated cheese added to a waffle recipe produces a waffle which is delicious served with any kind of creamed meat, fish or fowl. It is suitable for either luncheon or supper.

To save time and confusion when serving a buffet luncheon or supper, have the guests serve themselves from the main table. Then direct them to card tables arranged about the room. Coffee, rolls, and dessert may easily be passed.

EX-POLICEMAN FOUND GUILTY

Jury Rules He Got $1,600 in 'Protection Money' From Gambling Operators.

(By United Press)

BUFFALO, N. Y.—A former policeman was found guilty of bribery, taking unlawful fees and conspiracy and four of his fellow officers have been convicted of conspiracy by a supreme court jury.

John J. McCarthy, former assistant detective chief, was found guilty of all three crimes—the first two of them felonies—as charged.

His co-defendants, Assistant Chief Frank J. Leigh, Detective Sergeant William F. Muckler, Detective John W. Neville and former Detective Sergeant Simon A. Kearns, were found guilty of only conspiracy, a misdemeanor.

McCarthy faces a total maximum sentence of 21 years in prison and possible fines totaling $10,500. The other defendants each face a maximum sentence of one year in prison and a $500 fine. Sentences will be passed Saturday.

The charges arose from a special grand jury investigation of gambling at a carnival conducted during the Veterans of Foreign Wars national convention here last year. McCarthy, according to the testimony, was given $1,600 to share with the four co-defendants in return for "protecting" the operators of "fixed" gambling devices at the carnival.

SOCIAL ERROR CORRECTED

BRISBANE, Australia (UP)—When a Brisbane socialist found it was too late to keep a downtown street appointment with a friend, she sent her a telegram addressed as follows: "Mrs. ———, short, dark, stout woman, wearing glasses, waiting outside the ——— building, Queen street." The telegram was sent at 11:03 a. m. and at 11:09 a. m. it was delivered to the right person.

Czechoslovakia, visited by thousands of Americans annually, has a Declaration of Independence which was written in Washington, D. C., in 1918 by Masaryk, the first President, after he had conferred with President Wilson. The Czechs have been called "the Yankees of Europe."

C. OF C. VOTES NEXT WEEK ON NEW DIRECTORS

Members Asked to Nominate 10 to Fill Vacancies; Delegates Named.

Ballots were being prepared today by the Chamber of Commerce for distribution to the membership next week asking them to place in nomination the names of 10 members to fill vacancies in the board of directors.

The 20 members receiving the most votes will be nominated and will be balloted on early next month, Paul W. Williams, secretary-manager of the chamber, said.

The terms of 10 board members who are chosen for a two-year period expire this year.

Members retiring from the directorship this year but who are eligible for re-election are H. G. Balyeat, A. M. Colby, C. M. Crafton, P. M. Eliot, C. H. Henkel, John S. Jones, F. B. Mahoney, W. C. Mead, L. J. Ott, W. W. Purdy, and W. A. Springer.

Other board members whose terms do not expire until 1940 are Dr. J. S. Hattery, O. C. McCormick, A. C. Rhoads, H. T. Siegenthaler, C. L. VanDerau, H. W Arlin, W. A. Bowers, F. A. Chamberlin, R. E. Hutchison, Judge C. H. Huston, G. W. Stephens.

Names 9 Delegates.

Meanwhile Judge Huston, president of the chamber, announced the appointment of nine delegates to the 45th annual meeting of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce Nov. 10-11, at the Mayflower hotel in Akron.

Those who will carry Mansfield's vote to the convention are H. L. Goemann, national counsellor, Henkel, W. H. G. Kegg, Judge Huston, Eliot, James M. Hill, G. W. Stephens, H. W. Arlin and Williams.

The two-day conference will be headlined by speeches by Bennett Champ Clark, U. S. senator from Missouri and already hailed as a potential presidential candidate in 1940, and Merle Thorpe, editor of "Nation's Business."

Another speaker will be Paul Sifton, assistant administrator of the federal bureau of labor's new wage and hour division, who will discuss wage and hour legislation.

Alexander Thomson of Hamilton, president of the association, will preside at the two-day conference

Bones Indicate 1,000-Year-Old 'Nebraska Man'

LINCOLN, Neb. — (U.P.)—A new type ancient Nebraskan characterized by a long, narrow skull has been discovered by Dr. Earl H. Bell, assistant professor of anthropology at the University of Nebraska.

The discovery was made during excavations conducted near Ponca, Stanton and O'Neill in northeastern Nebraska. Dr. Bell estimates that the race, believed to be representatives of the Woodland culture, lived in the area perhaps a thousand years ago.

New information uncovered by a summer's digging proves definitely, the anthropologist asserted, that Nebraska is the farthest west these ancient people have been found. He believes this culture is related to the Oneota, which is found from western Wisconsin through northern and central Iowa.

"The tribes near Stanton had stone, copper and iron arrow points in addition to copper vessels," Dr. Bell said. "Glass beads and flasks, found in abundance, clearly indicated either direct or indirect contact with white men."

Dr. Bell intimated that the Woodland tribes might have been cannibalistic Bones excavated near Ponca from a large pit house were split and mutilated, indicating the marrow, which Bell said was a choice Indian delicacy, had been extracted.

INDIAN MARKS ERASED

CONCORD, N. H.—(U.P.)—New Hampshire, once a populous Indian territory, has retained only 28 aborignal names for its counties, lakes, rivers and mountains, a survey shows. Scores of other Indian names have been supplanted by English names.

Constipated? Then Ask Yourself This Question!

If constipation has you bogged down so you feel tired, sunk, all played out—it's time you asked yourself a question!

What have you had to eat lately? Just meat, bread, eggs, potatoes? It's no surprise you're constipated! The chances are you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is what you lack, your ticket is crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains both "bulk" and the great intestinal tonic, vitamin B_1. And it's not a drug, not a medicine!

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and take a new lease on life! All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Her Jewels Gone

Mrs. Edward H. Townsend, jr, wealthy Long Island socialite, is minus $200,000 in jewels and a chauffeur. The gems had been left in a box in the socialite's limousine Police speculated the chauffeur may have been highjacked.

SERVICE TOO COSTLY

FRESNO, Cal.—(U.P.)—Chief of Police Truax refused to serve 164 bench warrants for motorists who had failed to respond to traffic tags His argument was that the traveling expenses might bankrupt the city. Some of the violators lived as far away as Portland, Ore., others in Southern California and two score in San Francisco.

HOME-MAKING CLASSES INCREASE IN POPULARITY, 100 ENROLLED

Nearly 100 Mansfielders, most of them housewives, are receiving free instruction in home management in adult homemaking classes at eight Mansfield schools and the Y. W. C. A., according to Miss N. Marie Wilson who is conducting the classes.

Established last month by the federal government as a part of its vocational program, the classes have increased steadily in popularity and each now has an enrollment of from 10 to 15 adult pupils, Miss Wilson said.

Instruction is provided in home management, preparation of foods, consumer buying, nutrition and psychology.

A few men are enrolled in the class at the Hedges school where the discussions concern consumer buying.

Classes are conducted in cooperation with the state department of education, Mansfield P.-T. A organizations and the Y. W. C. A. The cost is paid by the state department which is reimbursed by the federal government.

The weekly schedule of classes follows:

Monday — West Fifth street school, 7 to 8 p. m.

Tuesday—Newman school, 1:30 to 3 p. m.

Wednesday—Y. W. C. A., 9:30 to 10:30 a. m., Brinkerhoff school, 1:30 to 3 p. m., and Bowman school, 7 to 8 p. m.

Thursday—Prospect school, 1:30 to 3 p. m., Hedges school, 7 to 8 p. m.

Friday—Bushnell school, 1:30 to 3 p. m.

Dr. H. E. Curry, Missouri state veterinarian, has estimated the equine sleeping sickness epidemic will kill 2,500 horses and mules in Missouri during 1938.

Attorney Calls Off Plans Made 10 Years Ago For Wake.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia.—(AP)—George Wright, 70-year-old bachelor attorney, has called off plans he made for his wake because he is still very much alive and the friends he invited ten years ago are either dead or living in other parts of the country.

Wright took out "wake" insurance maturing Oct. 31, 1938. J. C. Hansen, the trustee, died recently.

"Instead of my old friends making merry at my wake," said Wright, "I have attended the funerals of all but a few of them."

At least 64 chemical elements are present in soil and 58 of these have been found in plants, says U. S. Chemist W. O. Robinson.
